The great mass of democratic senators are indignant at Senator Hill about the fight he is making against the tariff bill. Some of them want to read him out of the party. This element has proposed a democratic caucus to read Senator Hill out of the party. The New Yorker's position is very offensive to the majority of democrats, but, of course, he will not be read out of the party, though a caucus of democrats has been called to decide what is to be done with the tariff bill. Debate on the schedules of the bill and amendments commences tomorrow. By the time that runs along for a week, the democrats will be forced to take steps toward getting together. Every one realizes that it is absolutely necessary for the party to pass a bill. Likewise every one realizes that the bill cannot pass the senate in its present shape. It looks now like the income tax will have to go or else the bill fail. This means that the income tax will probably go with Hill, Murphy and Smith declaring that they will vote against the bill with an income tax.

Fight the Devil with Fire. The majority of democrats are beginning to realize that they may have to throw down their hands to this trio. But they will not do so until some very decided opinions have been expressed in the caucus. Of course, there will be many other changes in the bill. When it does get through the senate it will not be recognizable. If the income tax is stricken out, the southern senators will do some striking out themselves and will knock all the protection to trusts out of the bill. But, before a vote can be reached, some very lively times are promised about the senate. Today the dry debate went on. From now on it will be enlivened by the offering of amendments.

Chicago, April 23 .- From all over the west comes the news that the crusade of the industrials is spreading. Over a dozen armies are now in the field. In all the large towns companies are rapidly being formed. The armies, detachments and divisions now in the field in the west are: General Kelly, 1,000 men, Ncola, Ia.; General Fry, 1,000 men, Terre Haute, Ind.; General Fry's second division, 900 men, McLeansborto, Ill.; General Grayson, 100 men, Plattville, Col.; General Galven, 200 men, Loveland, O.; Sergeant Randall, 500 men, Chicago; 100 men at Little Falls, Minn.; 500 men at Butte. The army was in a perfect uproar this morning at breakfast and General Kelly was kept busy pacifying the men.
After the breakfast was over and the men were arranging to break camp preparatory to leaving by wagon for Avoca, the climax was reached. While he was securing the medicine and clothing for the sick men General Kelly approached him abruptly and

The trouble between General Kelly and Colonel Baker started in camp last night in a tent over a couple of women. MINERS ARE IDLE.

More Than 125,000 Men Have Left the Coal Mines.

BIRMINGHAM INVADED BY 6,000

One of the Leaders Say That All Are Armed.

GOVERNOR JONES CONFERS WITH THEM

Be Done-Coal Creek Miners in Ten-nessee Are Still at Work,

Birmingham, Ala., April 23. -(Special.)-Alout daylight this morning 300 strikers arrived from Blue creek, thirty miles away, They had walked since dark last night. By 10 o'clock 6,000 were in line. They come from mines all over the district. A third of them were negroes. They bore banners with various devices, some illustrated, some argumentative and some am biguous. They were well mustered by captains and lieutenants.

The executive committee of the miners met with Governor Jones about 10 o'clock. Governor Jones declined to express his opinion on the situation. He says, however, that the miners assured him they would do all in their power to prevent any violence. He said he had confidence in the law-abiding spirit of the miners. He had put troops under marching orders, and it would be easy to concentrate a formidable force here if occasion demanded it. cautionary orders to troops outside of the

As a matter of fact, however, the colonel or other officers had put the local troops under orders to report every two hous to their armories. At 11 o'clock the army of miners left for Lakeview park, in the suburbs. The committee which had conferred with the governor reported, and upon its report resolutions were passed that the miners of Alabama insist on the removal of the convict miners, and at the same time that the weight system be better regulated, and that semi-monthly payrolls be inaugurated. Several speeches of an argumentative, but not incendiary nature, were made, and the meeting adjourned without an exciting feature. The men are not sensational, but they are determined.

All Are Armed. When asked how many pistols he thought there were in the army of miners, an old striker significantly replied by asking how many men were in line. The workers are gradually leaving the different mines. Those that remain are well guarded.

At Blue Creek, last night, the houses of some were fired into, but no one was hurt. Several arrests have been made today for intimidating, which caused some excitement. In a conversation today several important white strikers said they proposed to avoid violence if possible, but that they could not be held accountable for the acts of their negro friends. The colored miners, they say, were indignant with the negroes who had taken their places, and they might be hard to control. The strikers be-ing all in the city, little of interest oc-

THOUSANDS ARE OUT.

Mine Workers. Columbus, O., April 23.—President John dren. McBride, of the United Mine Workers, received reports from a number of his lieu-tenants in the different coal fields today, the most important of which is the following from Murphysboro, Ill. "Murphysboro, the supposed liev to the situation in southern Illinois, is solid; also the Duquesne district. Everything is favorable, and 2,600 men are out."

It is signed by Organizers Fahy and Penna. The leaders had little hope of indusing the southern Illinois mines to join the strike, and this is an unexpected addition to the strikers' forces. McBride revises his figures as to the number of miners out today as fellows: Alabama, 8,000; Tennessee and Kentucky, 5,000; West Virginia, 2,000; Indiana, 5,000; Ohio, 26,000; Illinois, 27,600; Pennsylvania, 50,000; Indian Territory, 2,000; Michigan, 300; Iowa, The following is the substance of the news given out at the headquarters today: The Maryland miners will hold a state convention to determine whether they will join the strike as a whole or not, on Thursday of this week. Southern Iowa is not all out but the miners of the state will meet at Albia May 2d, to decide what action the state organization will take. The Indian Territory is out solid. Many miners are out in the New River and Kanawha River districts, but the miners will hold a convention at Charleston W Va tomorrow to agree on united action. The miners of the Wheeling and Moundville districts have been offered the wages demanded by the scale, but they have been ordered not to go to work until there is a general settlement of the strike. The Indiana block coal miners will join the strike on May 1st. There is danger that the miners in West Virginia who have been offered the scale wages will accept, and thus weaken the strike at a dangerous place.

orty-Five Hundred Men Go Out and Feel Confident of Winning. Pittsburg, Pa., April 23.—This was a busy day for the United Mine Workers' officials of the Patsburg district, and as a result of their arguments 4,500 men, who were on the fence as to whether they would strike or not, decided to join their brethren in the fight for a uniform rate of wages. The 4,500 men mentioned above were employed in the Turtle Creek and Irwin mines. This afternoon President de Armit, of the New York and Cleveland Gas and Coal Company operating the Turtle Creek mines, met the United Mine Workers' officials in joint de-bate. President de Armit tried to convince the miners that his contract with them was valid, and if the workmen did not perform their part his company would hold them and the United Mine Workers' officials for any losses the company sustained by the men refusing to work. The United Mine Workers' officials con-The United Mine Workers' officials convinced the men that the contract spoken of by Mr. de Armit was not binding on them; that many operators had failed to keep their contracts and that the miners must now all join together and have the operators establish a uniform rate that will be just to operators and miners alike. After the debate the 1,500 men employed at Turtle Creek decided they would join in the general strike. The 3,000 miners at Irwin on Creek declored they would join in the general strike. The 3,000 miners at Irwin on learning of the action taken by the Turtle Creek men also decided to strike. This makes the suspension in the Pittsburg district complete and 20,000 miners are now out and Irwin caused general rejoicing among the miners' officials and the men will greatly strengthen the general strike.

COAL CREEK MEN AT WORK. If They Continue the Strike Is Bound

If They Continue the Strike Is Bound to Fail.

Knoxville, Tenn., April 23.—(Special.)—The miners' strike in the coal regions is already approaching a crisis. Miners at Olivers, Newcomb. Pioneer, Jellico and Kentucky mines just across the state line are all out, but 2,000 men are at work in Coal Creek valley. So far as East Tennessee is concerned, Coal Creek can supply all the coal demanded. Consequently Coal Creek men must be induced to go out or the strike will be a huge failure. The striking miners are bringing heavy pressure on Coal Creek has always conplained that other miners lead them into difficulties and then desert them in the hour of need. They say now is their chance to play for even. Notwithstanding that, however, they will probably succumb if the strike lasts two or three weeks.

Not One in Operation.

Phillipsburg, Pa., April 2.—in the Clear-field and Beech Creek coal regions there are upwards of one hundred mines and out of this number there is not one in operation today. The suspension is complete through both regions. There is not the least excite-ment today, but the miners are very impatiently awaiting news from the regions in Maryland and Virginia.

In addition to asking for a mining rate of 50 cents a ton, the miners in these regions before resuming work, will demand the abolition of company stores, pay for all dead work and strict compliance with the monthly pay law. The miners in the Snow Shoe district suspended work this morning. The Broad Top miners have reconsidered their announcement of intention to continue at work and came out today.

How It Stands in Maryland. Cumberland, Md., April 23.—The miners at Thomas and Douglass, W. Va., did not go to work this morning and may be consider ed as part of the men adhering to the strike. The number is not large being strike. The number is not large being something under 250, and there will be no trouble. All the other larger mines of the Davis Coal and Coke Company are at work and there is a likelihood of the others be-ing induced to return to work. At any rate no trouble is feared, as the men are not acting from any grievance of their own, but out of supposed sympathy with the general strike in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

The Strike in Tennessee. Chattanooga, Tenn., April 23.—There is only a partial suspension of work at the Soddy coal mines. There is no dissatisfaction among the miners and those who are out have gone out in sympathy with the general strike. It is not likely that the strike in Tennessee will last long, as the miners have no special cause for complaint. At Jellico 3,000 miners have struck and there is a total suspension of work.

A HORRIBLE BUTCHERY. Negro at Tuskegee Confesses to Killing Two Children.

Birmingham, Ala, April 23.—George Sinclair's two children, girls, aged two and six years, disappeared from their home near Tuskegee yesterday. Search all night revealed this morning their dead bodies in the woods, their skulls h ving been crushed with a bloody club which lay beside them. Near by in a pond was found the body of Howard Jackson, a halfwitted old man.

The Murderer Confesses. Montgomery, Ala., April 23 .- A special to The Advertiser from Tuskegee says that Eli Philpot has been arrested and that he has confessed to the murder of the two little colored girls found on Friday last at a point about five miles north of Tuskegee Philpot is a young negro of about twenty years of age. His arrest grew out of the discovery of tracks made by a pair of Reports of the Great Strike of the old shoes given the murderer by George Sinclair, the father of the murdered chil-

The murderer is a brother of the mother of the children. When arrested he told a calm story of the crime; how he pursuaded the children in the absence of their mother to leave the house with him; how he carried the younger one in his arms; how he split their heads with an ax, and after killing them, carried them some fifty yards and placed them together under a tree, because, he said, he did not think they ought to be by other negroes to kill the children, but that he did not take the money, because he did not think it right to kill them for money.

Additional to giving an account of the horrible murders, he also confessed to have set fire to a number of buildings, the burning of which had heretofore been a mystery. He said that others were implicated in the burning of the buildings and that he had each time been delegated to apply the torch. This band is composed of both men and women and several of them have been arreted.

TO A COTTONWOOD TREE

A Negro Murderer Was Strung Up in Kansas. Cherokee, Kan., April 23.-Frank Haman,

a coal miner, living with his family near the Schwab mines, two miles west of here, is dead at his house half a mile east of the mines at the hands of some colored Alabama coal miners, and the leader of the murderers has been lynched. Last night the colored men came to Haman's house for the purpose of robbery. Haman ran out to get help, but was shot in the throat. He ran about 150 yards and fell, where he was found an hour later. Jeff Tuggle, a colored miner, was charged with the murder. He was caught at Wier City today and brought to Cherokee. A few minutes later Mrs. Haman, the dead man's wife, accompanied by a score or two of miners, arrived and when the woman was taken before the prisoner she identified him instantly as one of the robbers. Before the officers could get Tuggle away a mob captured him. They marched him with a rope around his neck about a half mile northwest of town and hanged him to a cottonwood tree.

THREE NEGROES LYNCHED

In Louisiana for the Murder of a Plantation Manager. Vicksburg, Miss., April 23.-Four negroes have already paid the penalty for the brutal assassination of Manager Boyce, of the Bounne plantation in Madison parish on Saturday, and it is not unlikely that several more will have summary justice dealt out to them. One negro was shot Saturday night. A mob gathered at the jail last night and took out Sam Slaughter, Tom Claxton and Dave Hawkins and swung them to a banister of the courthouse till General Sam Thomas Has a Rough Draft for Reorganization.

CENTRAL AFFAIRS JUST DRIFTING Southwestern People Are Hanging

Back and Obstructing Progress. THEY SURPRISE GENERAL THOMAS

He Thinks That They Cannot do Better Than Take 5 Per Cent-Judgements

New York, April 23 .- (Special.)-A representative of The Constitution called to see General Samuel Thomas at his office in the Union Trust building today, to know about the reorganization of the Central railroad of Georgia. There have been rumors on the street that a plan has been agreed upon, and that it was a plan that had been formed by General Thomas and Mr. Ryan, who had undertaken to reorganize the company on a basis to save the stock. Rumors have been afloat that a plan had been matured to reorganize the Central company by the friends of the Southwestern railroad of Georgia. This plan, it was said, would wipe out the stock of the Central and the debentures and that the Central would be managed by those who would be controlled by the stockholders of the Southwestern, But your correspondent could not trace this rumor to any reliable source. In fact, none of the many plans to reorganize the Central that have been discussed seem to have any foundation in fact, except that given below, as given your correspondent by General

"I know nothing of any plan," said General Thomas, "for reorganization of the Central except the one that I have been at work on. There have, it is true, been rumors about other plans, but I can hear nothing definite "What is your plan, general?"

'I have a plan," said General Thomas. "I mean by that a general plan. I have not agreed on the specifications, but I don't mind telling you that everything has been practically settled, so that we can go to work and in a few days reduce the plan to writing and fix the details. But there is one thing in the way."

"What is that?" "The attitude of the stockholders of the Scuthwestern railroad. They seem to be disinclined to do anything. I have taken special pains to see all the men who have any control of the Southwestern railroad in this city, but I can get no response from them. They seem inclined to continue litigation, and to desire to take steps to sever all connection with the Central. We have offered them a guarantee dividend of 5 per cent on their stock as a basis of settlement-to settle all litigation and put an end to all dissention. This is the very best that can be done, and save anything for the stockholders, and why they didn't accept it I am at a loss to see. I wish some one would promise to do near so well for the stockholders of the Central. Something for the Stockholders. "The plan I propose," continued the general, "is simply to let those who now own the Central continue to own it. We propose to practically put it on its feet again with a reduced indebtedness, caused principally by reducing the rentals on leased roads and reducing the interest on its security to a basis that will be easily earned by the road, saving whatever there is in the property over and above the fixed charges now and hereafter to the stockholders. I am sure it is the only plan that will be successful, and if it fails the road will be sold to the highest bidder and some one will purchase it who can then carry out plans without consulting many who are now really entitled to be consulted and ought to be. The truth is. think, some of the parties who are now hanging back and trying to keep the South western people out of our reorganization would rather see both roads go under the hammer than to see any kind of reorgani-

"What do you propose to do with the indebtedness of the Central?" was asked "That has been practically all turned over to our committee," replied General Thomas. "We have it well in hand and under our control. The floating indebtedness, the tripartite bonds and all the underlying securities amounting to over $15,000,000, will be wiped out on an agreement in writing. For this indebtedness a new consolidated 5 per cent bond will be issued. The terms for the exchange have been agreed upon. In fact, everything, as said before, is practically settled but the Southwestern matter. If they hold out, we are at our row's end."

"How long do you expect them to hold out?" Judgments Against Southwestern.

"That I am at a loss to answer," replied General Thomas. "I am surprised that our proposition to take a guarantee of 5 per cent on their stock was not promptly accepted. Some of them whom I have talked to seem to have an idea that they can make more out of the road by taking it out and running it alone. We have a judgment for about $2,000,000 on the tripartite bonds. The Southwestern people have appealed it, but the case will be heard on the 16th of May next before the court of appeals in New Orleans. I think there is no possible doubt but that Judge Jackson's decision will be approved. Then the Southwestern is endorser on the Montgomery and Eufaula for about $1,500,000. Then they are jointly liable on the indebtedness of the Mobile and Girard for about $500,000 more, and proceedings to foreclose in these two last items have already been instituted. Now if the Southwestern road proposes to do business it will have to have rolling stock and equipment. This wni cost, to give them no more than they now have, $1,500,000. So you see they will start housekeeping with a bonded indebtedness of from $5,000,-000 to $6,000,000 without any connections at Macon or Albany. They will have to earn the interest on this before the stockholders get a cent.

haven't the time, but I am interested in having a fair settlement and will do all I can to have it settled so as to save all can for the people who own the road. "What do you propose to do with the holders of debentures?"

"They will simply come in as preferred stockholders. If the road earns more than the interest on the bonds there will be enough to pay them 5 per cent on their preferred stock, which will be exchanged dollar for dollar for the certificates or debentures, as you people call them. "The plan I have leaves the property in the hands of the present owners and cuts the rental of the Southwestern railroad from 7 to 5 per cent, with a guarantee of payment. I don't know of any other plan that has been matured. I don't believe there is any other plan, and I believe if the

The Courts Say the Olympic Can Have

Them.

New Orleans, April 23.—The Olympic Club has won a big victory in the supreme court, which today affirmed the decision of the lower court and the result of which means that the club may give fights again. The suit against the Olympic Club was brought several months ago, at the time when there was a sentiment throughout the country against prize fighting.

The Olympic had arranged for a battle between Bowen and Abbott, and had made all arrangements for the battle. Suddenly the attorney general entered proceedings against the club, praying for an injunction restraining the club from giving the fight. The club promptly acquiesced and said it desired a legal opinion on the question of its rights to give such contests. The Sullvan-Corbett and the many other battles in the Olympic club arena had been given under a state law passed several years ago, and which permitted boxing contests in regularly chartered athletic clubs. The state, held that the Sullvan-Corbett and state-held that the Sullivan-Corbett and similar affairs were not boxing contests but prize fights pure and simple. The club, on the other hand, contended that the fights were fully authorized by the terms of the law. The case was tried before a jury in the civil court and after a long and interesting trial, a verdict was given in favor of the club. The state promptly appealed to the supreme court and the argument and briefs were elaborate. The court today rendered an opinion affirming the judgment of the lower court in favor of the club. Chief Justice 1 and 1 a tice Nicholls dissented. Judge Watkins read the opinion of the court.

SHOULD SUE THE COW'S OWNER. A Peculiar Case Against a Railroad in North Carolina.

Raleigh, N. C., April 23.—(Special.)—A curious case came up this afternoon in the superior court here. W. H. Worthington sues the Raleigh and Augusta railway for $5,000 damages. He was walking by the side of the track when a train which was approaching struck a cow which had attempted to cross the track. The cow was thrown in the air and struck Worthington and knocked him into a pool of water. When the engineer ran back he found Worthington had crawled out of the water and was lying on a log. The issue hinges upon the question of negligence, and this will be ably argued.

Reports made to the agricultural depart-Reports made to the agricultural department today show that corn planting is nearly completed, save on bottom lands; that a very large crop has been planted and is coming up well. Most farmers are only beginning to plant cotton, though some is up. Tobacco plants have been somewhat injured by bugs and it appears that a comparatively small crop will be planted. The prospects of the small grain crops are improved. crops are improved.

DYING WITH HYDROPHOBIA.

After Several Weeks Relapse, the Ter-and sell liquor. and sell liquor traffic "All acts applying to the liquor traffic Knoxville, Tenn., April 23.-(Special.)-Several weeks ago a young man named Biagiotti, the son of a wealthy Italian farmer living at McMillan's station, was attacked by a large dog and painfully bit-ten on one leg. After a few days the wounds began to heal and no inconvenience arising save from a soreness, nothing more was thought of the matter. A week ago, however, the man began to look wild and act peculiarly and in a day or two his people realized that he was suffering from hydrophobia. He was tied to a bed and in that condition now remains. Food is taken ravenously and his moans have a sharp resemblance to the snarling and snapping of an angry dog. He froths at the mouth, his muscles contract convulsively and he shows all the symptoms of the dreadful disease. Today he is much worse and physicians say he will certainly die.

NO EXTRA SESSION IS PROBABLE The Present State of Affairs Long Contin-dispensary decision paralyzes me. It is confusion worse confounded."

Thus spoke Governor Tillman tonight. For the first Time since the decision, the governor submitted to an interview. He was in a merry mood and talked freely. The governor was asked how long before the uncertainty about the decision would be removed and the mystery as to its meaning solved. He said: "I have already solved my part of it. It is now for the judges to let the people know what they have decided. I don't know whether the decision means prohibition or free liquor, or what it means. don't see what object they coud have had in leaving the matter in doubt." "Well, Governor, what about that extra

"Who has heard anything of an extra session? All I've heard of it is some talk in the newspapers and, of course, the papers are always in the wrong.'

"It is claimed by some that the decision leaves the law a prohibition law, and that the police regulation feature of the law stands. How about that?"

Governor Tillman replied: "All I have to say is that the legislature gave me authority to enforce the dispensary law. When the court declares the dispensary law dead, why, of course, my authority to enforce It dies with it. I don't see what right I have to attempt to maintain the constabulary to enforce a prohibition law, if it is such." "Governor, whose business is it to find out what the court means?"

"I don't know. It's not mine." Then laugh ingly the governor said, "What is it Byrou said about Wordsworth. Oh, yes, 'I wish he'd explain his explanation.'

The governor was asked what he intend. ed to do about having the stocks of the various county dispensaries shipped back here and stored; if the rents and insurance would not amount to more than the expense of doing this. He said he had no authority whatever to go into the expense of moving the stock and things would just go on just as they are. Continuing, he said: "You see, I am paralyzed. I can't do anything. It seems to me that the court, in so many words, ex-pressly declared that the dispensary law is not a prohibitory law. The court denies emphatically that the municipalities have the right to issue licenses. Now if it it not prohibition law and the right to lesne licenses does not stand, and there is no other law applying to the liquor traffic, it looks to me like free liquor. It looks as if anybody and everybody can go out any-where in the country, at every cross-roads been repealed and there are none on the statute books. The whole situation, as I. see it now, is that I can only maintain the status quo; shut up shop, close up business as abolutely nothing and obey the law. "The state is forbidden to sell whisky As to who else can or may, I can't and won't pretend to say. It is confusion worse confounded."

CAPTAIN MOONEY EXPLAINS.

A Reply Made to Cooper Who Was on the Darlington Jury. the Darlington Jury.

Greenville, S. C., April 23.—(Special.)—
Captain J. A. Mooney, chairman of the military court of inquiry, which sat in connection with the coroner's jury at Darlington and made a report accusing the state constables of murder, will publish a statement tomorrow in the The Green-ville News in reply to a letter of J. C. Cooper, of Fort Mott. Cooper was a member of the court. In his letter published. Sunday he intimated that he did not understand what he was doing when he signed the report and that he was misled or overpersuaded by Captain Mooney to sign the document. Captain Mooney will show that the court captain aconey will snow that the court was appointed by the regular military channels, the non-commissioned officers and privates being chosen by the captains of their respective companies without any prearrangement. Names of members of the court were telegraphed immediately to Governor Tillman and were presumably acceptable to him, as he made no objection. Instructions were given to the court by General Richbourg and read and explained in the presence of them all and specifically authorized each member to file if he wished, a separate report, giving his views of the evidence. Captain Mooney has a facsimile water press copy of the report, showing that nothing was added to or taken from it after it was signed. He states that it was thoroughly discussed by the members of the court before being written, and after being written was read over to them twice at least. Repetitions occurring in names were corrected with the assistance of Cap-tain Harvey of the Gordon Light Dra-goons and other members. Captain Mooney was made chairman of the court from the fact that he held the senior commission.

Blind Tiger Released. A negro named Ladsden, who was arrested in the county near the city on Friday night for running a blind tiger, was unconditionally released today on a direct telegraphic order from Governor Tillman. The city police are arresting blind tigers freely under a city ordinance. ### MEET ONCE MORE.

Confederate Veterans Arriving at Birmingham for the Reunion.

CHEAP RATES DRAW LARGE CROWDS

Bound Trip Tickets Are Very Cheap from the Mississippi-Four Governors Will Be on Hand.

Birmingham, Ala., April 23.-The big reunion is on. People are coming in from four quarters of the southern states. The city is already packed with visitors and still they come. They are here from the little great grandson dressed in the uniform of a soldier to the old confederate with one leg and one arm, who leans on a cane for support. Those who actually fought. their sympathizers, wives and children are here and still the crowd comes. The street fakir and the pickpocket, sure signs of a great crowd, are already here. The streets this evening in the business part of the city, were so crowded that one could hardly make his way along. The business men have nearly all thrown out streamers of confederate and national conors. Pictures of great southern generals dead and fiving hang from the windows of business buildings and private residences. The air is full of hustle and bustle and everything has a gala appearance.

The low rates on all the railroads has been made, give ssurance of increased attendance and the rate war, it is generally conceded, will result in the bringing of thousands who would otherwise not have come. Not only has this rate war begun, but it is not at an end, for it has been rumored that still lower rates will be made. Some weeks ago the Queen and Crescent made rate of $7 for the round trip from Nev ns to Birmingham and return in order that the Texas delegation might be increased. It was thought that the trans-Mississip department would make a proportionate rate from Texas points. To down the Queen and Crescent, the Louisville and Nashville announced a rate from New Orleans to Birngham and return for $5. This set people to hustling about making preparations to take advantage of the cuts. But this was not all. Today the Queen and Crescen went the old reliable one better and made the round trlp $3 and it is understood that Texas lines co-operating with the Queen and Crescent have made proportionate

Birmingham, Ala., April 23.—(Special.)—An audience of 1,000 intelligent citizens never gave more rapt attention to an argument or political issues than that accorded John T. Morgan, Alabama's beloved senator, in this city tonight. The senator was advertised to speak at 11 o'clock this morning and at that hour 5,000 people had assembled in the wigwam, despite the fact that an hour before notices had been posted that the speaker would not arrive. His ap-pearance was then advertised for 4 o'clock this afternoon, but Senator Morgan did not arrive in the city from Selma until about 8 o'clock topicht. o'clock tonight. At 8:30 o'clock the Com mercial Club hall was filled with Morgan's friends. Its capacity is only 1,000, but the asisles were crowded and a third of the au-dience stood and listened. For more than two and a half hours Senator Morgan argued, for the speech was purely an argu-ment based on the Chicago plat-form. At intervals the senator was cheered and applauded with such tremendous enthusiasm as carried conclu-sive proof that his audience was with him almost to a man. Senator Morgan exhaus-ted the question of finance and spoke in the interest of harmony in the party. His speech was largely devoted to the money question. He ignored his political actions. ries and attempted persecutors, and his speech did not breathe one particle of illtoward anybody. A perfect ovation was tendered him at the conclusion of his speech, and the crowd that gathered around him would not have

Captain Watson, of the San Francisco, left two officers here with instructions to proceed to Rama and investigate the killing of the American, William Wilson by Aguella, the acting governor of that town. They have not yet returned, but a report has reached here that the mail boat which plies between here and there, and flies the American flag, has been which hies the American hag, has been selzed by the Nicaraguans. As the Clinton is preparing to sail a schooner load of Nicaraguan troops has just landed, having come up from Greytown. It is reported that three other boat loads of troops are oming.

ETCHED AND SKETCHED.

Mr. Claude Falls Wright, of London, sec one of the speakers at the world's parliament of religions in Chicago, is in this city. He will lecture tonight in Phillips & Crew's hall, or "An Outline of Theosophy."

Speaking with a reporter of The Constitution last night Mr. Wright gaid: subject of theosophy is one understood by so few people that it is exceedingly hard in a few words to adequately explain the philosophy. It takes a radically different view of life from that of the age. Not it o one vastly superior.

Mainly it is the doctrine of the ancient Brahmans. Of course, it is generally known that all religions sprang originally from one source; and this source, according to the osophy, is the religion of the Hindoos—the redanta. This is confirmed by Max Mul er, the orientalist. The ancient wisdom religion is now differentiated into thou sands of sects. There was a time whet the sole object of men's lives was the obtaining of knowledge concerning the occui laws of life, and occult development. The object of life now is different; not in itself wrong, but less certain of success. It is comparatively easy for any man to break through into the supersensuous or occult worlds, providing he is possessed of the daring and determination to do so. But some do not believe these worlds exist. Hypnotism, however, is the entrance to new fields of investigation and it will not be long ere it is proved that these psychic

"In western countries—in France and the United States particularly—a phenomenally large amount of attention has been given within the last few years to the occult sciences, so-called; more, indeed, than mos sciences, so-called; more, indeed, than most persons are willing to believe. This is an indication that the whole world will not long hence occupy itself with the study of such sciences. But for ages they have been studied by the Hindoos, and the results achieved kept secret. Secrecy has been maintained because the world as been maintained because the world as a whole was not fit until now to comprehend the knowledge or make proper use of it. But lately some advanced Hindoos, perfect men or Mahatmas, having seen the wisdom of giving the knowledge hitherto kept a secret to the world at large formed the Theosophical Society and permitted some knowledge to be given it through Madame Blavatsky, their pupil and messenger. This teaching embraces a general sketch of the teaching embraces a general sketch of the nethods and purposes of nature. Man is the flower of the planet, but it has take ages to produce him and when fully developed he will be fitted by nature for greater ends. But the souls of men de not come and go to and from this planet, as popular religion teaches. The ancient se-cret wisdom teaches that once a soul has come into the world it has to be born or incarnated again and again until perfection is attained. Thus each man has lived on

Of course, Atlanta will get the direct benefits, but the benefits which will result from the building up of trade with Central and South America will belong to New Orleans. I believe that if the possibilities of the exposition are properly presented to the composition are properly presented to the com-mercial interests of New Orleans and other cities of the south, especially the port cities, everybody will give practical endorse-ment to the enterprise and will aid in every way possible in building it up. eld an enthusiastic meeting in the council There were between one hundred and a hundred and twenty-five of the flower of Atlanta's young business and professional men present.

President T. B. Felder presided and the proceedings were recorded by Secretary Pelham Neal. One object of the meeting was to arrange a programme to blend with the exercises of Memorial Day. The desociation was organized weeks ago and this s was the first meeting since the organization. The committee which was appointthen to prepare by-laws, charter, con stitution, etc., submitted its report and the same was adopted. It was unanimously decided to participate in the memorial exercises on Thursday. The organization will be mounted and act as special escort to the Ladies Memorial Association. Those who wish to join in the parade are requested to report to Colonel A. J. West by 9 'clock this morning, so that he can secure an adequate number of horses. A regalia to be worn on the oc-casion was decided upon and the associa-tion will rendezvous at the Equitable building at 2 o'clock p. m. on Thursday, where all who contemplate turning out will be furnished with hats and regalla. It is high-ly important, however, that those who de-sire to participate should attend the meetand give their names to Secretary Neal so that arrangements can be made in their behalf.

Several new members were added to the roll of membership last night and letters which were read indicate that there will be many more accessions.

Mr. Robert Blackburn was elected historian of the occasion. Although this branch of the Sons of Confederate Veterans was only organized two weeks ago the association, which now covers the entire south, had its origin in

It was about six or seven years ago that the lamented Grady, in a ringing editorial, called a meeting for the purpose of organizing an association. An organization was soon effected and from that a similar movement started throughout the south. The post here soon disintegrated, but the seeds sown by Grady germinated all over and inspired the reorganization which starts out under such favorable auspices in the parent field.

The object of the Atlanta post is to secure a grand reunion of all sons of confederate veterans throughout the country at our exposition in 1895, and the material which is engineering the affair will carry it forward to success.

TO BIRMINGHAM.

A Large Delegation of Old Vets Leav to Mingle with the Boys Again. A meeting of confederate veterans was held last night to make arrangements for the Birmingham trip and get things in shape for Memorial Day.

All the details of the trip were arranged and everything was put in readiness to make an early start this morning. Some resolutions of an interesting nature were introduced, and other business of interest was transacted. Judge W. L. Calhoun in-troduced a set of resolutions recommending a better and more complete system of the distribution of pensions. These were unani mously adopted. Another set of resclu tions were presented arging all the mem bers of the association to do all in thei power to influence the United Association of Confederate Veterins to meet in Atlanta during the exposition. Several enthusias tic talks were made on that line. The delegation which goes to Birmingham leaves this morning at 6:45 and a happy car load of old vets it will be. The delegation is made up of Judge W. L. Calhoun, chairman; Major W. G. Whidby, secretary; W. B. Burke, W. M. Durham, T. P. Black, H. C. Divine, L. H. Hinds, S. B. Scott, H. H. Smith, T. H. P. It came to the ears of the department last week that games were being played in the room during the bright hours of day, and a raid-was ordered. Yesterday afternoon Detectives Wright, Looney, Cason and lvy visited the building and walked in on four gentlemen who gave evidences of having just stopped off abruptly from a game.

Signs of poker were visible on every hand. A round, cloth-covered table in the center of the room, stacks of poker chips and several decks of cards were in sight. The furniture and gambling paraphernaia were seized by the detectives and carried to police headquarters. Cases of gaming were made against the four men found in the place at the time.

The Glenn Law.

Today the county commissioners directed the county attorney, Hon. J. L. Hardeman, to institute legal proceedings to collect about $2,800 in taxes due the county by the entral road on its main stem from Macon to Savannah. The taxes cover a period of four years—since the passage of the Glenn law in 1889. Now that the supreme court has declared the Glenn act constitutional, the county desires to collect the taxes from the Central. The Central claims that under its charter it is exempt from taxation. The question will have to be decided by the courts, and as the Central is in the hands of a receiver, the matter will be heard before Judge Emory Speer.

The article was of a slanderous nature throughout, and hundreds of marked copies of the paper containing the Columbus items were sent to various parties here. The ar-ticle was an expose of several all-ged scanin one of which Mr. Thomas was referred to as the "fastidious Hockley." With this exception fictitious names were used, but the communication was so ingeriously constructed as to enable a reader acquainted in the city to readily understand whom the writer referred to. Some of the best people of Columbus, men and women, were represented as living lives of debauchery. When the paper found its way into the city there was a sensation. The article from Columbus was discussed on all sides and indignation at its slanderous contents ran high. Parties set to work at once to discover the author. The editor of the vile sheet refused to disclose the name of the correspondent, and it was a mere accident that the discovery was made.

Thomas Makes a Discovery. An Atlanta news dealer happened to call at Thomas's store this morning and during a conversation the Atlanta gentleman mentioned incidentally the fact that The Kan sas City Sun's Columbus agent had en-deavored to get him to represent that paper in Atlanta. This was exceedingly in-teresting to Mr. Thomas, who was eager to learn the correspondent's name. He was informed that the libellous writer was Adolphus Jones, a young dentist, who re-cently opened an office on Broad street. centy opened an omice on Broad street. This information, together with other facts in Mr. Thomas's possession, convinced him that Jones was the man and he proceeded forthwith to the latter's office and gave the young dentist a whipping that he will probably never forget.

Thomas went to the dentist's office unarmed and alone, called him to one side and told him he came to whip him for writing the slanders were the standard told him to the standard told him he came to whip him for writing told him he came to whip him for writing the slanderous communication. Jones pro-tested his innocence of its authorship and called Thomas a liar, whereupon Thomas knocked him down and proceeded to punish him severely, using his fists as weapons. Thomas's action in the matter is generally commended. The difficulty attracted but little attention, as Jones's office is up stairs, and Thomas was not arrested. A $6,000 Fire.

Four residences in the southern portion of this city were destroyed by fire this af-ternoon. The total loss is about $6,000. The property is partially covered by insurance An alum spring was discovered almost in the heart of Columbus today. The spring is on a disputed piece of property, being is on a disputed piece of property, being claimed by both the city and the Central railroad.

HOW WORLEY WAS KILLED. No Doubt Is Entertained That He Was

Murdered by White Caps. Ellijay, Ga., April 23.-(Special.)-The killing of Henry Worley last Thursday was not in Murray county, but was in Gilmer county, near the line of Murray. Coroner John Hunnicutt accompanied by Sheriff H. M. Bramlett and Ordinary A. M. Johnson, returned late Saturday night after holding inquest, which lasted two days

Worley was to be tried at Ellijay as a white cap for assisting in whipping Hood Nailer in this county two or three years ago. Court was near at hand and he almost sure to be convicted. He had threatened, it is currently reported, to give the names of 100 white caps, and it is believed by almost every one here that the white caps killed him for this, as they had hanged him to the same tree to which a negro was hanged. This is supposed t have been intended as a warning to Worley never to reveal the names of any of the white caps. When one company of white caps hanged Worley another rushed in and cut him down. This was near Carter's Quarter in Murray county two weeks ago Friday night. Worley returned home and did not leave the county.

The coroner's investigation brought out the facts that Worley was plowing in his the facts that Worley was plowing in his field last Thursday, when he was shot five times by parties only a few feet away from him. Three witnesses were sworn— Worley's little twelve-year-old dauguter, Bradley Thornton, a farmer who lives a mile away, and Mr. Burgess, a brother-in-law to Worley. The little girl had been sent to a neighbor's house near by for a heel bolt for her father's plow. As she left the field Bradley Thornton came into it. He talked with Worley nearly an hour, In the Superior Court.

Judge Hunt arrived from Griffin this morning to hold Bibb superior court for Judge Bartlett in disqualified cases. The cases of Mrs. Estelle Wolff, of Atlanta, against sundry parties, which were fully described in The Constitution today, were postponed until the first Monday in June on account of the unavoidable absence of Mr. 10th J. Wimberly, one of plaintiff's attorneys. The case of J. J. Clay vs. the Phoenix Insurance Company for $900 on a house destroyed by fire near Central City park, was taken up. There is a similar case against the Magara Insurance Company. The defense is that when the insurance was placed on the house the companies were unaware that there was a mortgage on the property. Hardeman, Davis & Turner represent Clay and Dessau & Hodges represent the defendants. The grand Jury also convened today and has much business before it. Several interesting gambling cases will be heard.

This was soon after Thornton left eks of the men showed that they had been within six feet of Worley when he was shot. Burgess did not go to the scene. He was plowing in an adjoining

Mrs. Worley was also sworn and stated that she saw four disguised men running away in sight of her house, which was some distance from the scene of the killing.
All who were seen to run were strangers.
This murder has stirred up considerable feeling in this county and the governor will be petitioned to offer a large reward for the capture of the guilty parties.

PROBABLY ONE CRIMINAL LESS. This One Committed the Usual Crime.

No Tidings of Him. Brunswick, Ga., April 23.—(Special.)—News reached Brunswick today of a dastardy assault committed at Jamaica Saturday by Bob Evarts, a black brute. The victim was Miss Tommie Howe, the ten-year-old daughter of James Howe, a prosperous and highly respectable farmer of that community. Evarts escaped but was afterwards captured and is somewhere between Brunswick and Jamaica in the custody of Constable Blount, or is swinging from a limb. Constable Blount started for Brunswick with his prisoner, but the route is slow and tedious and Evarts may make his escape of he may be captured by the citizens. Evarts is a noted criminal. SHIPPING LIQUORS TO SOUTH CAROLINA

The Palmetto State People Are Evidently Celebrating the Death of the Dispensary Law-A Female Tramp.

Augusta, Ga., April 23 .- (Special.)-There were two failures today, both small. The dry goods house of J. W. Frank was closed by the sheriff under foreclosure of mortgages amounting to $2,000. J. Edelstein gave a mortgage to Abe Cohen on his stock for $1,435, which was foreclosed. George W. Van Pelt, druggist, today gave mortgages on his stock amounting to $347.71.
Frank W. Capers, a prominent attorney, accidentally shot himself this morning.
Mr. Capers, who lives on the hill, thought some one was burglarizing his house abou daybreak. He got up and with pistol in hand, searched the premises. While walking about the pistol was accidentally discharged and the ball entered the calf of his leg. He is not seriously wounded, but will be laid up some days. The liquor men of Augusta are feeling very happy now. They have been notified by the express company and railroads that liquor will be received for shipment into Carolina in any shape whatever, packed or unpacked. They have been sending liquors and wines to Carolina all along, but at times their losses were considerable when the constables would discover their pack ages and confiscate them. Many schemes were gotten up to get these consignments through safely and some of them worked successfully. Orders for drinkables poured in today and will continue to do so until the people all through the state are supplied.

A Female Tramp. The first woman tramp that has ever come to Augusta rolled in this morning. She came in on the bumpers of the early Georgia morning train from Atlanta and did not deign to change her position or to move a peg until the car on which she had taken passage had rolled into the union depot. She had been on the blind baggage the greater part of the night. Much sympathy was shown her at the depot. The employes provided her with breakfast and gave her a small amount of money. man tramp was something unique to them. CAST UPON THE BEACH. Six Lives Lost by the Sinking of the Los Angeles. Monterey, Cal., April 23.-It is now know that six lives were lost by the loss of the steamer Los Angeles, at Point-Sur lighthouse, on Saturday night. Three bodies were cast upon the beach near the light-house—those of Timothy Nolan, fireman of the steamer; Fitzgerald, a passenger, and a hostler named Sanders, of Los Angeles. It is also known that S. N. Shevidan a persenger from Ventura, and a Chinaman from Los Angeles, were drowned. A son of Mrs. Augusta Curtain, of Los Angeles, died from exhaustion in one of the life

The Los Angeles was an old steamer and was crowded with passengers from southern California ports bound for the Midwinter fair at San Francisco. All are accounted for. They were taken from the wreck by her own life boats, but could not land on the mainland owing to the heavy surf. They found refuge on a small island, whence they were afterwards taken by the steamer Eureka, another coaster. The last of the people of the Los Angeles were rescued from the vessel's top masts shortly before it went under. Fireman Sanders was drowned in trying to swim through the breakers when the attempt to make a landbreakers when the attempt to make a landing on the main shore was abandoned. The see outside the breakers was calm or all hands would have been lost.

JESSE SELIGMAN DEAD.

The Well-Known Capitalist Passes Away on the Pacific Coast. San Francisco, Cal., April 23.-Jesse Seligman died at the Hotel Del Corado this

Jesse Seligman, banker and philanthropist, was one of eight brothers, born in Baidesdorf, Bayaria, Jesse Seligman being born in 1825. The boys were all given ex-cellent educations, but as the family grew up they emigrated in turn to America where a wider field for their energies awaited them. Joseph Seligman, the oldest of the brothers, was already well established in the new world, when, by his efforts three others of the brothers, including

JESSE SELIGMAN.

Jesse, came over in 1840. Young Seligman immediately began to do an active peddling business throughout the poorer quarters and suburbs of New York, which he con-tinued until 1849, by which time he had saved a snug little sum of money. Then the gold fever of 1849 struck the country and Jesse Seligman followed the westward drift, not to search for gold, but to establish a clothing business in San Francisco Here he did a thriving business for two years, when the big fire of 1851 occurred, sweeping every storehouse in San Francisc away except that of Seligman. It happened at the time that he had a very heavy stock of goods on hand, and thus had a virtual corner on the market. He was not slow to improve the opportunity which fortune had thrown in his way, closing out at last probably the most profitable sale of goods ever held west of the Rockies. He remain ed in San Francisco until 1857, when he was induced to return to New York by his brothers, who were doing a thriving bus ness in the metropolis.

About the close of the war they determined to open the banking house which has since borne their name, and which eventually included all eight of the Seligman brothers. The bank's connections soon became world-wide, establishing branches in most of the principal financial centers o Europe, and in this country in San Francisco and New Orleans, with connections in South America and the West Indies. In 1880 Joseph Seligman died, which left Jesse Seligman at the head of the vast banking

Mr. Seligman has been a confidential adviser of several secretaries of the treas-ury and has been regarded as one of the soundest and most astute of the financiers of Wall street. During the panic of the famous "Black Friday" the bank of Seligman Brothers stood firm as a rock, as it has done through all the panies of the past twenty years. In addition to the business of the firm Mr. Seligman has taken an active part in a great many other enter-prises and has been noted for his broadminded policy and liberality in numerou charitable undertakings. He has been liberal not only with the charities of his own race, but also an active member of many other charitable organizations. Mr Seligman leaves three sons and three daugh-ters. He has always been a conscientious regular attendant at religious services. In his later life he was an enthusastic pro-moter of the railroad connections through the southwest to Mexico, having a firm faith in the vast future of the commerce between the United States and its sister republics to the south. He was also interested through his banking house, in the Panama canal enterprise.

Will Atlanta take much more time to deide when the Alabama street bridge shall The people in the western part of the city have been clamoring for an ingress to the heart of the city for years and now people in the heart of the city are begging for egrees to that section.

As the surface of the ground lays now the people of the first ward, at least of the larger part of the ward, are cut off from the rest of the city by a network of railroad tracks on all sides. It is impossible to reach almost any part of the ward without crossing railroad tracks, over which trains of freight cars and engines are con-stantly plying and which oftentimes obstruct pedestrians and vehicles. All of this has made the first ward people a little angry and for the past three or four years they have been calling for a closer connection with the city in which they live and to which they pay taxes yearly to keep it moving along.

But up to the present the calls have been disregarded by the city council and now the people over in that ward are trying to secure a separate ward, which will give the secure a separate ward, which will give the people in that section a representation so that they may make their own fight in the city legislature for what they want. Not only do the railroad tracks cut the people off from a direct communication with the heart of the city, but it has so far prevented that portion of the city from securing the water that it needed to fight fires, to flush sewers and to wash the streets when needed. It has, too, prevented the proper sewer connections to a certain extent.

That he should advocate anything which will help the people out over on that side of the city is nothing but natural with Chief Joyner, who is always ready and anxious to help those in distress. Talking of the matter yesterday Chief Joyner said:

"The members of the city council evidently do not know how much that portion of the city is isolated. If they did they would do something to relieve them. The matter of water and sewers is a matter of vital consideration with them and should be given attention at once. But one of the most important things is an avenue by which that section of the city can be reached in case of fire. Especially so is it to me and to the city generally over which I and my men are watching at night when people are asleep. I cannot reach that section of the city unless I go across the Forsyth street bridge and then cross a railroad track to get to some portions of that section. By any other route I must

ATLANTA, GA., April 24, 1894.

The Platform Pledges.

Mr. Cleveland has sent a letter, en sing a check, to Hon, Chauncey F. lack, president of the National Asso ation of Democratic Clubs.

This letter is of exceptional interest this time, especially that portion in hich reference is made to the demoatic pledges. Mr. Cleveland says that the National Association of Demothe Clubs and every other democratic zency should labor unceasingly and rnestly to save our party, in this time of its power and responsibility, from the gradation and disgrace of a failure redeem the pledges upon which our llow countrymen intrusted us with e control of their sentiment."

This is certainly a worthy sentiment express in any place and upon any ision, and it has a strong and resoant sound even when addressed to the ational Association of Democratic mbs, which has no more power to carout the democratic pledges and no re influence on congress than any coltion of democrats acting in their pacity as private citizens.

But since Mr. Cleveland has addressed e sentiment to the association, let us ok into the facts a little. In what way can the National Association of Demo cratic Clubs "labor unceasingly and rnestly to save our party, in this time of its power, from the degradation nd disgrace of a failure to redeem the ledges" of the democratic party? Would avail anything for the association to nd a strong petition to Mr. Cleveland.

r a strong appeal to congress? At this moment the whole responsility lies with the president and with gress. The people, as well as the lational Association of Democratic Inbs, have done what they could. They ave endorsed the pledges of the demoatic platform by an overwhelming jority, and they have given a demo ratic president and a democratic coness commissions to redeem these pledges. What more can the voters of the country and the democratic clubs do than they have done?

The responsibility has been placed on Mr. Cleveland and on congress, and we o not see how, at this time, any poron of that responsibility can be trans rred to any democratic agency outside of the administration and the lawmaking powers. Mr. Cleveland has had a continuous opportunity during the ast twelve months to urge upon coness the necessity of saving the party from "the degradation and disgrace of a failure to redeem the pledges" of the ocratic platform. But has he ever told congress that the conditional repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act was not platrm legislation? Has he ever urged upon that body the necessity of redeeming the pledge which declares that under ocratic rule both gold and silver shall be the standard money of the country? Has he ever informed the house that the Wilson bill was not a measure for revenue only, which the platform pledged the people should become a aw? Has he ever told the senate that the tariff bill, which that body is now ssing, so far from being a tariff for revenue only, is simply a modifica on of the McKinley law?

To go further into this important natter has Mr. Cleveland ever informed ocratic recommendation to repeal he 10 per cent tax on the circulation of state banks? Has he ever instructed fr. Olney, his attorney general, to ence the law against trusts? It is perfectly well known to every son who is familiar with the temper and attitude of congress that Mr. eland can have every pledge in the latform literally carried out by merely alsing his hand and giving the word. de could have had silver restored to its place as a part of the standard iey of the country six months ago le could have had framed a tariff bill revenue only. He could have had e state bank tax repealed. He could ave instituted proceedings against ose trusts and combinations that are riously violating the law.

Taking these things into consideration are inclined to wonder how Mr. reland expects the National Associa n of Democratic Clubs to have more ice on congress than he has himself, or more influence with the president than congress has.

Meanwhile, we cordially echo Mi Cleveland's statement that the party will be both degraded and disgraced i its solemn pledges are not carried out. and as the duty of carrying out these pledges devolves on congress and the president, we do trust there will be no further delay in the matter.

More Bonds!

Under cover of a measure to coin the seigniorage Mr. Myers, of Louisiana, has introduced in the house a bill to give the secretary of the treasury authority to issue bonds whenever the banks bring a pressure to bear on the treasury; and the measure is so worded as to make the bonds issued under it payable in gold.

We want to see Mr. Myers push his bond bill. It is in many respects a test measure and we want to see how many democrats in congress are ready to retire themselves to private life by voting for a bond bill. No southern or western democrat can get back to congress or secure any elective office after voting to tax the people for the benefit of Wall street. It is true that there are soft places in which Mr. Cleveland can stow away some of the congressmen, but there are not enough of these places to

Mr. Myers's bill will hang fire for some months, but in the meantime, there will be another issue of 5 per cent bonds by the 1st of July. The train is already laid The gold reserve is again down to the $100,000,000 point, and, while the treasury officials say they are not afraid of any serious increase in the gold exports-though as a matter of fact they know nothing about it-the excess o expenditures over receipts is sure to deplete the reserve by July so that another issue of $50,000,000 will be necessary from the point of view of those who believe that the affairs of the treasury ought to be managed in the interests of Wall street. When that is done the burdens of taxation which fall on the shoulders of the people will be increased to the extent of $5,000,000 a year. In other words instead of cutting down taxes $5,000,000 a year will be added to the burden when the new bond issue is made. The people will be compelled to pay out of their hard earnings $5,000,000 a year in order that the organized money power of Wall street may have a safe investment for its idle funds.

This is hardly what the people bar gained for when they made Mr. Cleveland president. If their views had any weight whatever silver would now be a part of the standard money of the country, and the mints would be open to its coinage on the same terms with gold; and if there were then any neces sity for providing for a deficit in the treasury the people would favor the issue of non-interest bearing treasury notes. If the government's credit is strong enough to support the issue of interest bearing bonds, it is certainly strong enough to support the issue of non-interest bearing notes.

But Wall street has ordered matters otherwise. The gold in the treasury will be drawn out whenever the banks will it, and the issuing of bonds will go on until the people have an opportunity to put democratic principles in opera

Strange Parliamentary Scenes. In the house of lords the other night Lord Salisbury looked up from a letter he was reading and saw the muzzle of a pistol close to his face, with a finger on the trigger. Glancing upward he saw Lord Stanley pointing the weapon at him. The house roared with laughter, and at the request of Salisbury the weapon was lowered and handed to the prime minister. It seems that Stanley was advocating bill to restrict the sale of firearms. No dealer was to sell a pistol except to the holder of a game license, and married women were to be barred from having a license, husbands being outside of the definition of fair game within the meaning of the bill. The speaker gravely explained this clause in dead earnest and the noble lords laughed until they cried. Lord Stanley then drew several pistols from his pockets, and in discussing them he happened to point one in the direction of his col-

At the same hour there was another startling scene in the house of commens. Lord Randolph Churchill made a speech in favor of granting a large sum of money to the queen's granddaughter who is about to marry, and the brilliant leader acted like a buffoon. He was maudlin and incoherent and some of his speech was unreportable. The members laughed at first and then drew away in disgust. Churchill is not accused of being drunk, but his friends say that he has an incurable disease, and the slightest indulgence overcomes him. Such scenes in the British parliament will not cause the people to increase their esteem for the lords. When these figure heads lose their dignity they lose the best part of their make up.

A Waste of Time and Energy. The commissioners of the District of Columbia have done right in issuing a proclamation or statement, putting Coxey's armies upon notice that the authori ties will brook no interference with the peace and order of the district.

This is simply calling attention to the law as it already stands, and Coxey cannot complain that any new and extraordinary steps have been taken to bar his progress. It is true that the authorities have manifested no opposition to these marching hosts in other localities, but the invasion of the capital while congress is in session is quite another matter. The proposed demonstration to impress or overawe congress would be futile. Petitions and resolutions are well enough, but there can be no settled conditions in this country if thousands and perhaps hundreds of thousands of men are to be permitted to tramp over the country getting up their alleged demonstrations and practically forcing the people on their line of march to feed and transport them. It is all wrong and we have never had any folly equal to it. If the movement is not discouraged we may expect to see every year organized bodies of idle men starting out on similar pilgrimages, and it goes without caying that | they will encourage the disorderly classes in large cities to make trouble for the authorities. If these misguided men do not know what the law is it is well to give them notice in time, and make them understand that if they disturb the peace and threaten the persons and prosperity of citizens they will be dealt with accordingly. Coxey's followers will make nothing by their trip to Washington and they will find it difficult to make their way home. It would have profited them more if they had remained where they belong, working for their board until something better offered. Now, they have made themselves objects of suspicion by their foolish tramp and it will be harder for them to get employment than it was before. They have been guilty of a ruinous waste of time and energy, and their countrymen are losing patience.

Mobile and the Exposition.

It is gratifying to see the readiness with which leading western and southern cities are endorsing our Cotton States and International exposition. The Mobile Register has the following:

We have heard no single doubt expres of the great advantage to Mobile by At-lanta's effort to open up South American, Mexican and island trade through the port of Mobile. On the contrary, every express has been that of a great desire to advantage by it. Therefore—though it may be too early to formulate or even move ward details of an exhibit-Mobile can least give her moral support to this great

To do this effectively she has no time to lose. We call attention of our three commercial bodies to the resolutions pass-ed by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, published elsewhere, and to the request con tained in them. The exposition is firmly on its feet, and asks merely countenance and a government exhibit endorsement for this; and we suggest that the Mobile board of the suggest that Surely no sister city would be niggard of the Mobile board of trade, Chamber of Commerce and Commercial Club read, carefully consider and promptly act upon these.

The commercial bodies of Kansas City, Wichita and other towns have adopted resolutions pledging their support to the exposition, and Mobile is not likely to delay taking similar action. As the main object of the enterprise is to draw in this direction the trade of the countries south of us, it is plain that great benefits would accrue to the gulf and south Atlantic ports, as well as to the producers, manufacturers and merchants of every section of our country.

Socialism and Co-operation.

This is not the only country in which the socialists are gaining ground. They are very strong in both England and Germany, and the lawmaking powers of those countries are apparently disposed to favor them.

In Germany the old age insurance scheme has been in operation several years. A fund for the maintenance of aged workingmen is created by contributions from the workingmen, their employers and the government. An aged workingman when he becomes the beneficiary of this fund does not feel that he is supported by charity, because he has himself furnished a part of the money which is accumulated for him.

A bill now pending in the house of commons, and favored by leading English statesmen, is very different from the German system. It provides that the government and the local taxpayers shall divide between them a pension of $1.75 a week to be paid to any man or woman sixty-five years old who desires the money, and who has not been convicted of crime or accepted aid from a relief fund, and who has at some time subscribed to a benevolent society en to undermine the independence of the people and educate them into the belief that the government owes them a support, whereas the true theory is the the people should support the government. Old age pensions will make men improvident. They will save less money because they will feel sure of free rations and free lodgings when they reach the age of sixty-five

Fortunately, in our country co-opera tion is more popular than socialism, and it takes many practical and useful shapes. In Chicago, for instance, a wealthy citizen proposes to build a cooperative block of forty-four houses. They will occupy forty-six separate lots and family individuality will be preserved, except in certain features which can be better managed through co-operation. The houses will have a common court, a common lawn, a common library and reading room and a common kitchen. It is believed that under the new arrangement food, fuel and lights will not cost each tenant more than $2 a week. The efforts of individuals to combine for the purpose of cheapening the cost of living and furnishing employment should be encouraged, but every scheme which looks to the support of those who will not work by government taxes wrung from the thrifty portion of the community should be promptly con-demned. The independence of the individual has built up our republic, and the surest way to destroy it is to turn chine, making every citizen feel that his support depends not upon his own exertions but upon the action of the law-

A Chapter of Injustice. Sylvester Cone, who has just been por doned out of the New Hampshire ponitentiary, after serving seventeen years of a thirty-year sentence, will begin life again completely wrecked by the law. Mr. Cone is a scholarly gentleman, a journalist and at one time a railway official of high standing. Eighteen years ago he purchased a beautiful summer home in the town of Tamworth, N. H. where he resided with his wife and baby. A crowd of idle ruffians soon began to annoy the newcomer because he was a city man, and finding that he would not allow them to steal from him or tres pass on his property, they made it a practice to bathe in a little pond one hundred yards from his front door, and in full view of his family. The water was only two feet deep, and their indecent conduct was plainly visible while their foul language was easily heard. #### ABOUT THE GOVERNORSHIP.

Here is a notable editorial from Th Cleveland Progress. It speaks for itself:
"We have changed our minds, and with it, the policy of this paper in regard to the support of a candidate for governor. Mr. Atkinson first entered the race we have espoused his cause earnestly and fearlessly. But, upon sober, second thought, we have withdraw from his support, for reasons which we hold are paramount, and are now in the field as squarely and fairly as we can be for General Evans. The suc cess of the democratic party is a que of almost as much concern to every dem protection of the hearthstone. Upon the success of the party in Georgia has devolved not only the greatest interests of the state at large, but districts and communities are bound by its tie, for protection from iron hoofs that would have trod upon their necks, and a black supremacy that would be worse than the tyranny of a czar. ust elect democrats who will tend to har monize, instead of antagonize the opposi-tion. Our most serious opposition in this state are the populists, amongst who many gray veterans of the early sixties, and who are bound together by a tie of comradeship strong as death. eral Evans. This alone is a good reason why we should nominate him. "Then, there are the reasons that he is a plous Christian gentleman, known and espected universally for his conduct and respected universally for his conduct and equable judgment. He is ripe for the office of governor, having many years of expe-rience behind him as a leader in public life. The age of General Evans is not against him. He is vigorous and active, and his judgment has ripened and mellow-ed with his years of broad experience. "General Evans is clearly a stronger man than Mr. Atkinson, and it behooves us as good democrats to take the stronger man." The Valdosta Telescope has the follow

"If Colonel Atkinson were really as great as he proclaims himself; if his whole life were given from the cradle to the grave to the work he says he has done for Georgia, he could not show one-fifth the sacrifice of the numblest private who followed the confederate flag through four years of civil war. Mr. Atkinson's work for Georgia has been done at the rate of a thousand dol-lars a job." count his patriotism. It is often wise and best to reject a man's views and policy— it is never wise and good to asperse one's character. A right cause has no reason to

The Elberton Star wants Elbert to be the banner Evans county. The Star says:
"Let the vote for General Evans be unanimous in the county. Let no man escape that can vote and let us show the state of Georgia that Elbert county, which has the honor of nominating General Evans, can honor of nominating General Evans, can still further carry out that honor by casting every vote in the county solid for him-and not one for Atkinson."

Speaking of General Evans's Hamilton speech, The Hamilton Journal says: "When the general reached the court-house, it was with difficulty that he made his way to the stand. It was a perfect ova-tion for Hamilton. It has been many a day since there was so much enthusiasm here as was created by General Evans's speech.

The Savannah Press asks this question:
"The men who control' are at work

"General Evans is a fighter when aroused. He proved that during the war, and he is proving it now."

Says The Washington Chronicle:
"A list of Evans men was started here on the streets a day or two ago and nearly every man who came along signed it. Wilkes is safe for Evans."

Endorsing the action of the Georgia congressmen in voting to pass the selgniorage bill over the president's veto, The Sylvania Telephone says: "As a rule the Georgia congressmen can be depended on to do the Surface indications, at least, indicate a landslide in the eighth toward McWhorter and his election to congress is indications, at least, in the eighth toward election to congress to

pretty generally conceded throughout the entire district.

The demand of the people that members of congress stay at Washington and attend to their business finds emphatic expression in the editorial columns of the state press. The Oglethorpe Echo, for instance, says:
"Absenteeism seems to be the bane of this session of congress. Those who persist in thus neglecting their duty should be voted into permanent absenteeism at the next

Tom Grimes is doing a good deal of hand-shaking throughout the fourth district and presumably with effect. The Newnan Her-ald tells of his being at Congressman Moses's home, and says: "Mr. Grimes announced that he was squarely in the race for congress, and that he would visit New-nan again before the campaign closed. Con-gressman Moses will probably resist Brother Grimes's invasion of his home count; with a challenge for a joint discussion, and that such a meeting would prove a lively one goes without saying."

The LaGrange Graphic says of the contest for the same nomination in that county:
"A good-humored contest is now going on between the friends of Colonel J. H. Fannin and Mr. J. T. Johnson, and the one who wins will go into the convention with the solid backing of his county. Troug county should have the nomination this time, and we believe she will get it.'

The Carroll Free Press pays a handsome tribute to Congressman Moses, prefacing it with the statement that The Free Press did not favor Mr. Moses's nomination. "Now we candidly believe," says that paper, "that so far as practical results are concerned, Mr. Moses has been the most efficient congressman from this district since the war. We say this with no desire to underrate the services of the distinguished gentlemen who have heretofore represented the dis-trict, but because it is the truth, and that under the circumstances The Free Press can afford to say it. On the great and burning questions of the day which have come before congress, Mr. Moses has been a true representative of his con the questions of finance, tariff and taxation he stands with the great majority of his people and truly represents them.

The Tifton Gazette says: "The Thomas ville Advertiser nominates Hon. Robert G. Mitchell, of that city, for congress to succeed Hon. Ben E. Russell from the second district. He is a good man, in every way worthy and competent. He is our personal friend and we will support him with genuine pleasure if nominated, but with the lights before us, we favor Russell's return for a second term.

NOT NEW IN GEORGIA. Counting a Quorum Is an Old Practice

It is surprising that distingushed members of congress should differ and dispute over the origin and authorship of the rule that members of the body who are present should be counted to make a quorum, whether they vote or not.

I cannot remember when that has not been the rule in the Georgia legislature, and I think it must be in most of the states, if not in all. When the minority of a Georgia legislature would try to defeat a neasure for want of a quorum they would have to leave the house in a body, was called a stampede. If it could be afforded they would leave a member or two to see that the majority did not violate rules or laws, and would stay away as long as the stampede lasted; for just as one made his appearance inside the clerk would count him and if possible get a quorum that way, whether he voted or not. And why should not this be so? Can a member be present for one purpose and not for another, and thus be both present and absent at the same time?

A memorable instance of this sort occurred at the session of 1849-50 in the house of representatives. In that body the democrats had a majority of only four. The bil pending was to redistrict the congres-sional districts to break the gerrymander they accused the whigs of making at the session of 1843. The session was nearing its close and several members of both par-ties had gone home for the balance of the session. It was impossible for the demo eratic majority to make a quorum, unles they could borrow from their opponents. Seeing this, and believing there would be an impossibility for the democrats to have a quorum for the remainder of the session, a quorum for the remaindently or ind the stampede would directly or ind produce the defeat of the bill. For eight long, weary days there was no quorum course, no business was transacted Many of the most important bills of the session were awaiting a third reading and among them the tax and appropriation bills. throughout the state. The bankers and other financial and business men were really alarmed. They brought their influence to bear upon a few members who had joined in the stampede to return to their seats. The democrats sent for their absent men The democrats sent for their absent members, some of whom returned and by the aid of both contingents a quorum was reached by only a few votes. As soon as this was assured the stampeders resumed their seats and the bill was passed by a few majority. The purpose of the democrats in this particular failed entirely, for by the next election for members of congress there was a reorganization of parties and some of the surest democratic districts went the the surest democratic districts went the the surest democratic districts went the other way, notably the second, where James Johnson, afterwards provisional governor, defeated Henry L. Benning.

During the stampede there was one and only one of the whg members who refused to join the others and remained all the time in his seat, answering to his name on evey call. He was Charles J. Jeskins, one of the members from Richmond county, and afterwards governor of the state. He said he could not conscientiously join in such a proceeding, and regarded it as revolutionary in its character, subversive of the true interest of the commonwealth and a very bad precedent. The whigs oc-cupied the seats on the right of the house cupied the seats on the right of the nouse from the standpoint of the speaker's chair and the democrats on the left. It was cu-rious and even a sublime sight for the spec-tator as he looked into the house from the door or the gallery to find but one member to break the silent but oppressive vacuum that existed on one entire side of the house, and, as I said, this would meet the eye at any time the house was in side of the house, and, as I said, this would meet the eye at any time the house was in session during the eight long, weary days. If the situation had been photographed, it would have been an interesting sight for all time. While the whigs regretted the course of Governor Jenkins, they had such high regard for him and his character they did not censure him, and in after life it added to his reputation—I might say, fanne. As incidental to this subject I will take the occasion to remark that the late filibustering in the United States senate is acentury behind the times, and a stain upon our government. That the fate of a measure might depend upon physical endurance instead of intellect and integrity will warrant the characterization of such conduct as disgusting. We are simply where the house of commons was before the adoption of the cloture, that we call the "previous question," which was found necessary to put a stop to such disorder in parliamentary proceedings.

The loea of a United States senator, with a "godlike intellect," to prostitute himself to speak against time, to see whether he or his opponents had the greater physical endurance, is preposterous. It would be just as reasonable and a saving of time and suffering, for each side to pick "its strongest man and let them fight it out"—a la Corbett and Sullivan.

The Unveiling of the Lion of Lucerne to the Unknown Dead - Hon. H. H. Carlton the Orator.

Day after tomorrow is Memorial Day! In the presence of a great multitude, assembled from all portions of the state, the Lion of Lucerne will be unveiled

It will be an occasion of interest not only to the people of Georgia, but to the friends and admirers of the confederate soldier all over the world. It preserves in stone the heroism of those brave men who gave their all, including their very names, to the cause of the confederacy.

The military pageant will be one of exceptional interest and will be one of the longest ever seen in Atlanta.

A full plan of the organization appeared in Sunday's Constitution.

A Pretty Feature of Memorial Day A Pretty Feature of Memorial Day.

A new and pretty feature of the Memorial Day exercises will be the presence in the procession of about fifty girls, wearing wreaths across their sholders, the badge of the Ladies' Memorial Association on their breast and carrying flowers in their hands. They will occupy two large vehicles drawn by four horses each and will bring up the rear of the memorial association carriages. These two vehicles will take their position on East Cain street at Peachtree street. Mrs. Joseph Morgan, one of the vice presidents of the association, will take charge of these young girls, who are all about fourteen or under. She desires that they meet her at the governor's mansion on the lawn promptly at 2:30 o'clock on Thursday, the 26th, from which point they will take their seats in the omnibuses. Governor Northen and Mrs. Northen have kindly consented for this place to be made the rendezvousing point for these girls. The women who are now interested in the confederate dead will soon pass away and it is well for the girls who will take their places to become interested in the work. The Sylvania Telephone gives strong en dorsement to "the same code for man and woman," the advocacy of which has bewoman," the advocacy of which has become so general in the press since the Breckinridge-Pollard scandal. Speaking of Judge Wilson's magnificent plea on this line, The Telephone says: "All the good women of the country must thank him in their hearts for his noble and manly words. How unjust it is that man should escape with scarcely the smell of social or moral taint about him, as far as his position in the eyes of the world is concerned, and woman for the same offense be forever damned. It violates all sense of right and justice. Why should not man be held to as strict account as woman—why should to as strict account as woman—why should he be still received with open arms, in spite of his sin, and she forever ostracized."

"Kentucky cannot afford to return him to congress," says The West Georgia News.
"With him it was blunder after blunder.
Foolishly he allowed himself to become enamored of one he should have sought to shield and save.
Entrapped himself he sheltered under hypothesis der hyprocisy, gave himself to a life of shame and risked all on a court trial when he should have saved his manliness by confessing judgment. He played a bold hand and lost all. The other side gained an empty verdict and revenge. That is all. Thinking is in order."

The Sylvania Telephone thinks "the publishing of the scandalous evidence in the Pollard-Breckinridge case in detail by the daily papers will, without doubt, have a bad moral effect upon the minds of many of the young in our country. The fact that it might be said to point the sad moral of a deceived and erring woman, will not counteract the effects of the poison with which such reading matter is loaded."

The Oconee Enterprisessays the verdict was just. "The abominable Pollard-Breck-inridge case has come to a close. The case went to the jury on Friday afternoon last and in fifteen minutes they returned a verdict of $15.000 for the plaintiff. The hypocritical, silver-tongued crater of Kentucky was served just right," it says.

Again, when General Evans reached his grand climax, calling upon the judiciary not to be prostituted to the demands of politics, the people showed that they were alive to the new phase of political corruption which was beginning to eat like a cancer into the vitals of the state. "Not a ring for a day only, nor yet a year, but one rolling down through all eternity as well as encircling the present-will the people rise up and crush it out?" the pent up enthusiasm showed that the war was on between the common people of he country and "the men who control," as they are described in the Atkinson circular. The Arrival of General Evans. Upon the arrival of General Clement A Evans in this city on Saturday evening, he was met by a large crowd and the Carrollton band made the scene lively by the strains of Dixie. He was accompanied by Mrs. Evans and his charming little daughter, Sara Lee, who was strangely curious about the noise the people made. They were assigned pleasant rooms at the Southland hotel, where the ladies called upon Mrs. Evans and daughter, showering n them those delicate attentions so characteristic of refined southern society. iday was passed quietly, General Evans attending every church service during the fulfilling that duty which is incumbent apon all men. Early this morning he was taken in charge by those who had known him in days when it cost a man something will not desert you now.' Meanwhile, the courthouse was filling with the beauty and chivalry of Carroll, veterans and the sons of veterans, the sprightly maid and the mature dame, all ome to listen to one who represented the chivalry of the southland's heroic age. When General Evans entered at 12 o'clock, the band struck up an enlivening air and when Mrs. Evans, with her bright little laughter, was shown to a seat their identity became known and old men cheered as they had not cheered before since they welea old Bob Lee on the fields around Manassas.

A Feeling Introduction. Mr. H. E. Brown delivered the introduc tory, supported by two crutches. He carried in full view his credentials to the uplifted hat of every man who admires chivand his ringing words showed that the heart was as warm as the will had "A studied effort is being made," said he, "to prevent the election of generals to office by the specious cry of why not send a few privates? I will tell you why I wish in leading places the men who bore official station in the army. Hungary had Kossouth, Poland her Kosciusko, Scotland her Wallace and Bruce, and Ireland her Emmett. Around the names of these men shine the glories of their people. They were the representatives of their countries travail. Their names go down in history as the standard bearers of their people and is through their endorsements of them that the people emphasize their faith in their national principles. "There has been an effort since the decline of the confederacy," said the speaker, almost standing without the support of his crutches, "to make it appear that the soldiers of the confederacy were traitors; to make children look upon their dead fathers as men who had died under the curse of Benedict Arnold. I want to see confederate generals elected to office to show to future generations that we honored our Kossuths, our Wallaces, our Emmetts as long as they lived. Just because the Official stamp of the confederacy is branded into them is the very reason why I would thus have them. Whence comes this ery for the retirement of the generals? It does not come from the old soldiers, but from those who would draw them aside from that veneration which all brave people Pay to them. Leaders, just wait until the liers ask the generals to retire. "The worst shock I ever received was in the capitol at Atlanta when I heard a young member of the legislature say that the time had come to set aside the old generals. Sentiment is the flower of life and the worst state of the sentiment is the flower of life and the worst state. sweetest form of it is patriotism. It is from the utilitarian north that come ppressive legislation. A man without sentient is like a rose without perfume." Evans to the Front.

As General Evans arose the band struck "My heart leaps to hear that grand old tune," said he. "It has been circulated that the state of Georgia would be forced into a division never seen before among a civ-filzed people and that I need not expect to be greeted by the young sons of veterans But when I saw the faces of the young men who greeted me on Saturday night. I was glad to know that the young men of Carroll would not be asnamed of their valorous fathers. I saw in their faces that which sald that they were the worthy sons of noble sires. I was greeted not only by men who had been in the war, but by men who said, We will never cease to honor our father's friend.'

"Your chairman has alluded to some great names in history. I believe in William Tell, cherish Kossuth, I cannot forget Wallace, the heart of the world refuses to bury Emmett and no American can ever forget the fathers of the revolution. This very town and county have been baptized in the altar of sentiment to the memory of Charles Carroll, of Carrollton. When he was about to affix his signature to the declaration of independence, in order to identify his personality, he attached his residence. Let his name, the spirit that then fired his soul, move the young men of Carroll. There are men enough willing to hold office for their country, but we want men who would die

"This is a week honored in the south. We are nearing the day when lilles and roses will be scattered upon the graves of the dead. It was a southern-a Georgia woman who stood out in 1868, and called for this honor to the confederate dead. They are prontying that sentiment to all generations. If we are true to ourselves, that sentiment will never die, and the men of the future will be glad to be called the deecendants of confederate sires.

"I ask that the people's affections shall not be stolen from me," said the general, "because for the first time since I left the gory fields I have presented myself before the people. More than all things I desire the love of the people. I am, therefore, in your presence fully repaid for sufferings in war and arduous labor since, by your evidence that your love is still with me. The man who seeks to rob me of your love does greater damage than if he took some ma terial possession, or even my liberty. I ask that a true confederate soldier shall not be robbed of his crown, for I can say, like the old governor who burned up the record of the Yazoo fraud, 'Unfold the leaves of my heart and one name you will find written there, Georgia.'

"We went into war to illustrate Georgia and the man stultifies himself who says that the confederate soldiers fought anything else than the love he bore his state. The Fire Begins to Fly.

"From the last day at Appomattox in the last fight of the dying struggle in which I had a part, there has not been a day when I would not have stood up for any private soldier who had placed his life in the peril of battle. (Great applause.) "I would let my arm drop from its socket before I would forget the soldiers. (Waving of handkerchiefs by ladies.)

"Sixty-seven companies went out with me into battle. We were young lads, taking our chances equally. If I then became a general it was by the voice of the men with whom I had fought under the leader shower of bullets. (Cheers.)

"I will not have the stars upon the collar of my coat torn off by men who advertise their enmity to soldiers in north ern papers, or papers under northern control. But if it has to be done, let it be done by these men who have fought with me and whose homes I had in my keeping. These men, however, press me to their hearts as a confederate brother. One of them said to me the other day: 'I will crawl across the county where I live to vote for the man who went through the fire with me once.' The same feeling is expressed toward me by men who fought under Tige Anderson, under Dole and others. Some people may wish the death of confederate sentiment, but the great heart of Georgia will not respond to the effort to degrade confederate sentiment. When sentiment dies you may as well bury the confederate heart. This issue has been forced upon me against my wish. Party Harmony Called For. "For two years the state has been divided upon public issues. The evil effect of this division has been felt in the social and business relations as well as the political. We should look around to see how people can be brought back to political unity. Some have gone into extremes because they had grievances. grievances which pressed them. Now I see that there are signs that some of these extreme ideas may be abandoned, and I trust that some honest effort will be made to bring the people to gether. The democrat is a true disciple of Thomas Jefferson. There is only one kind of democracy, and it does not need any other label. If Jefferson were standing here today reading the democratic platform he would take every plank of it. (Prolonged and renewed cheering.) "So, too, would 'Hickory' Jackson.

(Cheers.) "We are all one people. We believe that the principles of the platform are the principles of the constitution and if carried out to practical effect they will cure all the evils of which we complain. We should consolidate the democratic power of this state so that in the contest of 1896 our united support should go to these principles. In division there is death, but in unity there lies all the hope of life. From division Poland fell, Scotland lost her liberty and democracy lost the presidency in

"We want a united democracy," said General Evans, "in the west and south-(cheers long repeated) and east if possible. Where is the Georgian who will deser the principles of his state for some important office? I would not take my title to an officer." declared the general impressively, "if it had to be amid the ruins of my party or through the degradation of my principles.' General Evans referred to national matters substantially as reported in other speeches, emphasizing, however, the necessity of strong, united action in favor of the repeal of the 10 per cent tax on banks which is one of the questions now pressing before congress. "Let our congressmen understand," said he, "that our banks must be free to issue bills and then we shall not be under a bar which degrades the sovereignty of our state. Its repeal would break the congestion now existing."

General Evans devoted some time to answering charges set affoat about the confederate home. These charges, spread by Atkinson supporters, attacked the motives, the purposes and the honor of the men who originally carried through and now control the Home property. They were to the effect that it was but an Atlanta scheme to build a poorhouse, and that men were to be dragged from their homes and "The movement had its origin in the purest sentiment," said he. "We were scattering flowers over the dead when the question was asked, what are we doing for the living? Confederate veterans appealed to the legislature, to the whole body and not to one man of it, for pensions. The legislature responded. Then it was found that there were widows of veterans in want, and the women of Georgia, uniting with the veterans, called upon the same body for help. It was granted by the legislature of Georgia, and not by a single individual. It was found that there were others not entitled to aid under any recognized rules of pensions, who needed help. They were poor, old, decrepit, friendless and without family. Should these men, dered, rot by the wayside or sink into hopeless degradation in poorhouses in a land which was illumined by their deeds? In CONGRATULATING MRS. EVANS. built the Soldiers' Home, in which the state was asked to receive such as would prefer it to the poorhouses. Seventy-nine men who had followed Lee, who rode with Jackson, and with smiling faces rushed into the storm of shell and shot which greeted them from federal works; seventy-nine such mer as these who had sunk into misfortun since, were ready to enter that home. The legislature refused it. The trustees then asked the courts for direction as to what they would do with the property, and it is now in the hands of the judiciary for set-

Corrupt Methods in Georgia. "We people of Georgia," said the general, starting in on the most interesting feature of his speech, "are being put in danger by methods in politics that we cannot approve. Like yourselves, in the ranks I have voted to keep the state true to the principles of democracy. There is a warning looming up concerning improper methods in state politics. The cities are suffering from ward politicians and their methods are now being introduced into state politics. Let a man run for governor and he is at once beset with methods of the most disgraceful character. The postoffice is made the vehicle of scattering slanders and falsehoods, such for instance as the statement that I am seventy-three years of age. Such letters might be written in Chicago or somewhere else, where low methods are in vogue. Everywhere I go I am met by statemer as to my great age, and one would think that I had been preaching seventy-five years ago, as far as my age is concerned. I am a married man and have no reason to establish more youthful years." (Laughter.) The Sensation of the Day.

Then came the sensation of the day. As the general had scored point after point, the sympathy between him and his audience grew until scarcely a word could be uttered that was not cheered. Seeing her father use an impassioned gesture little Miss Sarah Lee Evans, who was sitting amid a bevy of ladies, rose up and a sight of her inquiring face renewed the cheers. "A political clan has been the state," said the general, throwing his pated in the festivities of the occasion iron gray locks to the back of his head, "for the purpose of robbing the people of their rights. From the methods employed against me, I would feel that I was cunning against a candidate for constable in a Nev York slum instead of the governorship of one of the original thirteen states. Then That Atlanta Ring.

"In their literature my opponents speak of a politician as corrupt, and if an Atlanta politician, he is essentially corrupt Is it right that people from Carroll and every other county in the state who have come together to make up the capital of our state, should be stigmatized as corrupt There is no politician taking care of my campaign. A few personal friends, and these among the best men in the city, are overlooking my home work

"If there is corruption in Georgia," said he, "there are men on the other sale who know more about it than any one of mine The rumor for two years has been that there has been formed something that is dangerous to every county in the state, a ring for the parceling cut of all the offices of the future, known as the Georgia slate. It has been openly said that this combination is to last for all time. It is stated that certain men would continue and have the succession at times agreed

"If these things are true," said the general, bringing his hand down with an emphasis that shook the desk, "let us put them down." The audience stood up cheering. "Let us crush them. Let them stand de nounced for trifling with the rights of the people and making barter of their privileges. A prominent journalist has lately printed the names of certain men alleged to be in the ring. Solicitor general No. 1 is quoted as promising every county in his circuit against Evans. Solicitor general No. 2 is sure that Evans will not get one county in his circuit, while judge so and so pledges his circuit. "Have our young friends who happen to be solicitor generals banded together to control the politics of the state? Have they not enough to do in pushing the interests of justice not to be using the power of indictments to force men to do their will? What time have they to give to politics? As to Political Judges.

"Do you think," asked the general, "that the judicial robe should remain uncontaminated? That it should not be dragged through the slime of politics? That it should not smell of bargain and trade? 1 make no sweeping charge against the judictary. I only lift up my voice against the prostitution of the judiciary to polltics. If there are any of them really in it, they know it. I heard the other day of the action of one of the most eminent of for his signature to a petition. "Letters have been written abroad stat ing that 'the men who control' have decided that certain counties shall go so and so Carroll county, for instance, is being hawk ed about, and promised first to this man and then to that one. This ring has not bee organized for one campaign, but for all Men write to me that they were pledged two years ago in exchange for offices th lves wanted, and that now the political Shylock demands his pound of flesh This life-time pledging is contrary to the principles of our government. I would re lease any man thus bound to me, and bid him go and poll like a free men and not like a slave. While I acknowledge the force of political obligations, I must insist that there is such a thing as political honesty." (A voice, "Hurrah for Evans!")

With his hands raised the general said "Let us continue this and the day will come when one hundred men cannot set in room 104 at the Kimball house with map of Georgia spread out before them and hand over this solicitorship to Dick and assign that judgeship to Jim.

The Remedy Proposed. "Men are going over the state like the cuttle fish, darkenin the fater, in order that their own movements may not be followed, thinking that they can divert the attention of the people. If this is not stopped the people will have to go to the legislature and take from it the power of election with which it has been entrusted that the members shall not have the power of tightening the screws upon solicitors and judges elected by themselves. It must not possible for the legislature to go home to elect a governor. The people will have to resume their functions, and wipe away the intermediate agent.

"My friends," concluded the general, "never listen to a man who decries sentiment and who wants to put the old soldier down. You will be giving aid to those who would teach your children that their fathers were traitors. In this case an effort is being made to make me the victim of the cry that no more confederate generals shall be promoted to civil office. If so, I am willing that the last shot aimed against a confederate breast should enter mine if it should spare my comrades the mortification which is keener than wounds receiv ed in battle. (Cheers.)

"Let the question be plainly stated to the people. The issue is between the old soldier and the old politician, the man defending confederate sentiment and the man who would degrade it." A perfect storm of applause greeted the closing words. The audience was soon divided into three interesting groups-the one old grizzlies who had tramped to Gettysburg and back shook General Evans by the hand, Mrs. Evans was the center of an enthusiastic group who were congratulating her upon her prospective exchange of residence to the brick mansion, while a third group surrounded little baby Sarah Lee. At last one man who had evidently seen service lifted the child up on the table, where she was received as graciously as a little Geor-

Late tonight the Carrollton band, which, in two months' practice, has become expert, serenaded the general at the Southland hotel. General Evans spoke to them pleasantly, inviting them to attend the inauguration services. Just then baby Sarah Lee climbed up the bannisters and asked for 'Dixie," which was readily rendered, and the crowd dispersed to the strains of the south's favorite martial air and with pleasing remembrances of "the mother and the P. Almost directly opposite police headquarters they found more than a dray load of the missing goods. Several fine chairs, a sewing machine, several pictures, a bedstead and various articles, most of them of considerable value were recovered. These were transferred to police headquarters.

Detective Bedford states that not half of the missing property has been recovered, but he hopes to get it. The theft was a great deal about the alleged bribery. He stated to two or three court officials that he knew something about the affair and that he was going to tell all he knew and give away the whole snap. He even went so far as to state that he was going to the police station and tell the detectives what he intended to do about it. Whether he went there or not is not known, but it is pretty certain that he is not in the city. The officers of the court are very much disturbed over the disappearance of Cooper as they had relied upon him. In fact, they are rather anxious about him, as he is known to be a man of his word and not one who would back out because he had to encounter the bad feelings of detectives.

grand jury last Friday one week ago, when the witnesses were all to be examined. He happened to be out of town, but a sub pena was issued. On the Saturday follow ing the grand jury meeting he was in the city and made for the office of Solicitor Hill He had received the summons and came glad to have a chance to appear before the grand jury, as he had heard that he was wanted; and that it was for the purpose o testifying he had come to Atlanta. The next meeting of the grand jury had been set for Friday last and it was expected that Cooper would be on hand to give to on the deal which it has been alleged was in force between the gamblers and the de-that the members of the grand jury are very much worried over the alleged bribe ries which have been charged against the detectives. It seems that nothing at all was told by Brown, Faith and Harvey, though it is pretty certain that at leas one of this trio intimated that the detec tives "had gone dead wrong" on the pull.

There was one witness, however, who testified in a very direct manner. He stated that he had loaned $60 to one of the detectives and that he had never been paid back; that, in fact, he did not expect to b paid back. His tone indicated to the grand jury that he did not doubt the honesty of the detective, but its tenor might have implied that there was a tacit understanding occurs in secluded spots in the county. With this in view and with an eye single to the good of the people, the members of the commission established this force, which was to be composed of four mounted men, who were to receive a compensation of $37.50 and the use of a horse.

The mounted police were put under the charge of Superintendent Donelson. He issued orders that two of the police were to remain at the stockade and that the other two were to patrol the county. This went on for some time when a general dissatisfaction occurred and the entire force resigned. No appointments have been made to fill the vacancies. The names of the now dismounted officers are Will Williams, Will Castle, George Gaines and A. H. Lee.

LIQUIDATION CAUSES COTTON TO BREAK

London Selling and Labor Troubles De-press Stocks-The Weakness in Wheat Due to May Liquidation.

NEW YORK, April 23.-London selling, the labor troubles, the talk of gold exports, the light movement of freight from Chicago last week and poor railway earnings led to a weak opening for stocks today. The foreign selling, according to arbitrage dealwas due to the strike in bituminous coal regions and the exaggerated ideas of the importance of the unemployed now marching on to Washington. The bears, who have been waiting for a chance to hammer the market, thought it a good opportunity to assault the list, and, as London sold moderate amounts of St. Paul, Atchison and Union Pacific, they made a general attack all along the line. Prices declined ¼ to 1¾ per cent. New Jersey Central, General Electric, the Grangers, Chicago Gas, Sugar, Louisville and Nash-ville, New England and Union Pacific Scored the greatest losses. Reading fell % to 19% on the statement of Expert Little, which was considered unfavorable. The selling movement abated after 11 o'clock and the market became steadier. There was very little demand, however, except from bear sources. The rally ranged from ½ to 1% and was most pronounced in the cases of General Electric, Sugar, Chicago Gas, Cordage, Union Pacific, New England and Missouri Pacific. The recovery was assisted by reports that the rates of exchange on Paris were less favorable for shippers of gold. Just near the close Gen-eral Electric, Northern Pacific preferred and Louisville and Nashville developed declinging to 39% and 49] ly. The general list closed in Foreign and Domestic News Co. By Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager.

NEW YORK, April 25.—A substantial rally in General Electric was due to covering of contracts by the Cammack brokers. Ine representatives of the controlling interests soud a little stock at the advance. The pressure to sell St. Paul showed little abatement, but at the lower level there was a fair inquiry to cover shorts by the Wheeler party. The stock was in scarcer supply in the loan market. Distilling and Cattle Feeding was neglected, but was held well in hand, and the stiffer loaning disclosed the establishment of a new short interest. Chicago Gas was barely steady, but there was a fair sprinkling of buying orders. An aggressive raid was in progress at the close against Northern Pacific preferied and seme stop orders were caught. The feature of the market in the closing hour was the good buying of Sugar by leading commission houses. It is understood that if the finance committee of the senate refuses to grant more protection an amendment will be introduced to the sugar schedule on the passage of which will largely depend the fate of the tariff bill. Atlanta Clearing Association Statement.

Financial Gossip. York Daily Stockholder, April 21st: "The great coal strike, as announced yes-terday, is now practically on, but this and other events are entirely overshadowed by earnings, and in the latter there is con-tinued ground for disappointment. The de-crease of $2,250,000 in Pennsylvania's March earnings, as reported eernings, as reported by the Kiernan news agency, compares with a loss of $1,700,000 the month before. The former showing is so

"St. Paul was the active feature to the "St. Paul was the active feature to the railway list and prominent room traders bought it freely, resulting in a rally of about 1½ points. Part of this, however, was lost on realizing sales in the afternoon. As might be expected, the heavy reduction in operating expenses reflected by the March statement excited a good deal of tiscussion and criticism. In reply to the latter, President Miller, of the St. Paul road, said: "The reduction in expenses shown by St. Faul for March is mainly in train and station expenses, fuel and other items which follow a decreased volume of business. For instance, the decrease in fuel expenses was $64,000. The decrease was not in maintnance of road; in those items the decrease was only $19,000. Every one knows that nor much roadwork can be done knows that not much roadwork can be done

"New England declined in the face of the most favorable rumors regarding the plan of reorganization, which is expected to be out next week. Contractive results are the several transfer of the selling transfer of the several transfer of servative people, however, were inclined to wait and see exactly what the plan pro-poses, which is said to be an assessment of $20 a share on the common stock, $25 a share on the preferred and an issue of $15,500,000 new 5 per cent bonds."

New York Daily Indicator: "The price of pig fron declined from 25 to 50 cents per ton last week on indiscriminate offerings of southern brands. The Iron Age says that about 100,000 tons of bessemer iron has been purchased this week from Pittsburg mills at about $10 per ton."

western Iurnaces have also sold some large lots of bessemer pig to eastern mills, and as a result a better feeling exists in the trade in that section.

This has not found an expression as yet in an advance in prices, but it has lessened the competitions with the eastern concerns that had become fierce. The certainty the volume of business is expanding has not been without its effect in the east, but the feeling is more of anticipation than of reality.

of reality. In the pig iron department the action of the eastern producers in marking down prices sharply has driven out of the market the Pittsburg and southern sellers, who came in to piace a large quantity of iron. They did little business and have practically retired.

They did little business and have practically retired.
Eastern makers are still offering iron at low prices and some are pressing sales. The strike of coal miners may affect the situation, but it has not done so yet.

In manufactured material the usual run of small orders is reported, and the aggregate is sufficient to keep the mills fairly well supplied. Structural iron and steel is not as active as had been hoped. Prices for sheets have been cut again, and bar manufacturers are not at all pleased with the situation. Still conditions are no worse than they were, except that prices are a shade lower.

Atwood Violett & Co's. Cotton Letter By Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager.

NEW YORK, April 23.—The weakness of the market here is in the summer positions, of which there has been a great deal of selling against purchases of new crop months, and until the shorts cover the nearer months it leaves the buying to be done by a new element, which speculation does not develop. Liverpool opened 1-84d ones not develop. Liverpool opened 1-84d off, but lost another point, which was caused by the weakness here on and after our opening, closing steady. A good deal of the selling here has been due to telegrams in the morning papers showing interested mining troubles and a farther adof the sening here has been due to telegrams in the morning papers showing increased mining troubles and a farther advance of industrial armies, the tendency of which seems to be to create the congregation of bodies of men of this character throughout the west and middle states. The effect of this, it is construed, will be unfavorable upon general business, as it creates timidity among commercial classes. The course of this market has been toward a lower level. The movement at the ports today was 9.267 bales, against 6.610 lost year. The port movement on Saturday was 9.267 bales, against 6.610 lost year. The port movement on Saturday was 9.267 bales, against 12.638. Port Royal cleared on Saturday 5.000 bales, which will be added to the movement at the end of the week. The movement tomorrow will lose berhaps 4.000 or 5.000 bales, as compared with the same day last year, and the indications now point to a less port movement for the week than for the same week last year. Riordan & Co's. Cotton Circular.

NEW YORK, April 22.—(Special.)—The market was heavy throughout the day. May, which opened at 7.48, going to 7.43. There seemed to be little buying except to cover shorts, and the close was easy at the lowest price. The problem of the hour is how much of the long interest in May remains to be liquidated on Wednesday next. Many expect an improvement after that day, but the general opinion is that the market cannot stand heavy deliveries on May connections, and that if such should be tendered a farther break is inevitable. The trouble is that nobody seems to want to carry cotton in the face of the present probabilities or possibilities of the coming crop. On the other hand, the price is now so low that very few care to take the risk of selling short, and so the market sags. Riordan & Co's. Cotton Circular

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Cotton Circular.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Summary Hubbard, Price & Co.'s cotton letter: Advices from abroad were disappointing this morning in reporting a small demand from spinners and a decline in the arrival market, which finally closed steady at 2-64d below Saturday's quotations. It had been thought that the investment demand on the basis of 4d would be sufficient to absorb the offerings, but the lack of spirit in the demand from Lancashire seems to have caused the withdrawal of investors. Receipts today are very heavy which, coupled with the weakness abroad, caused a further decline in this market. On the basis of 5 points below Saturday evening's quotations a number of investment orders were reached, which absorbed the liquidation that had been in progress during the morning, and it was expected that the light, receipts in New Orleans tomorrow would have the effect of preventing a further decline, but on the receipt of estimates of 2,000 bales against 6,000 last year and 3,500 last week the market failed to rally and the feeling in the market is one of discouragement at the failure of Europe to make a stand on the basis of 4d; and outside of the buying for the accounts of those who expect to buy the market down a scale, there seems to be little demand. Under the pressure of continued liquidation the market became barely steady during the afternoon and finally closed easy at the lowest prices of the day.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

NEW YORK, April 23.—Cotton yielded 8 to 9 points lower, and ended weak. Sales, 202 000 bales. Liverpool declined 2 points, closing steady: spot sales 8,000 bales at a decline of 1-16d. In Manchester yarns were weak; cloths dull. New Orleans declined 6 points. The Bombay receipts for the half week were 29,000 bales, against 37,000 for the same time last year. Spot cotton here was 1-16c. lower. Sales, 1,033 for spinning. The southern markets were generally quiet. Port receipts, 9,267 against 11,077 this day last week, and 6,611 last year. Thus far this week, 13,357, against 18,254 thus far last week. The New Orleans receipts tomorrow are estimated at 2,000, against 3,143 this day last week and 6,031 last year. St. Louis receipts, 100, against 530 last year; shipments, 1,583. Large receipts at the ports, depression in Liverpool, Manchester, and at the south, some sympathy with the weakness in Wall street, reports of industrial troubles in various parts of the country, the dullness of cotton and cotton goods, fears of May "notices" on Wednesday, bear hammering and renewed and extensive long liquidation caused a further break in prices today and the last prices were about the lowest of the day. There was considerable covering of shorts on the drop, but this did not act as a very noticeable check to the decline.

THE CHICAGO MARKET. CHICAGO, April 23.-Wheat traders expected a break in prices, and they got it, aithough probably not enough to meet their athough probably not enough to meet their expectation. The nearest approach to excrement took place during the last inteen minutes of the session, when a stump of $\frac{1}{3}\text{c}$ in the May price occurred. It was the result of an increase in the offering for the month. July did not suffer quite so badily and as an evidence that considerable wheat was changed from the former into the latter month the spread today widened to $\frac{2}{3}\text{c}$. On Saturday it averaged $\frac{1}{3}\text{c}$. There were equivalentons of the May option all day and the weakness of today's market was directly due to this seling and to the mystery which surrounds the amount yet neid back. May wheat opened $\frac{1}{3}\text{c}$ can the close at the inside, a net loss of 1%c for the day. July closed 1\frac{1}{3}\text{c}$ under Saturday. Com fluctuated in line with its gruther neighbor, wheat. Arguments both for and against the price were numercus enough. neighbor, wheat. Arguments both for and ugainst the price were numerous enough, but the disposition to trade was absent. The range covered but 4c, the close being at the inside for the day—38% of for May—a nt the inside for the day—38%c for May—a oss of %c from Saturday.
Oats—Notwithstanding the break in wheat loss of %c from Saturday, Oats—Notwithstanding the break in wheat and the sympathy shown therewith on different parts of the floor, there was the usual stubborn firmness in the oat market. An unmistakably bullish sentiment prevailed and offerings were conspicuous by their absence. Although a fractional loss was made from Saturday, it was unaccompanied by much weakness. May oats closed at 32½c, against 32½c on Saturday. Provisions were weak generally. An interval of steadness was noted during the morning, but on free offering by packers and a prominent broker it proved but temporary. The hog market, although opening firm, developed weakness and this influence, when combined with the unsteady condition of the grain markets, worked disadvantageously to produce values. There was a good demand for eash provisions for domestic account, but the trade for export was quiet. Domestic markets were lower and foreign steady. Receipts were very light. Shipments were of fair volume. May pork closed 27½c lower, May lard 10c lower, May ribs 12½c lower.

Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter.

By Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager.

CHICAGO, April 23.—At no time during the session today was there any inclination to rally prices. About the only buying noticeable of importance was by Pardridge, who covered a good sized short line. It was a market of heavy liquidation of May contracts, much heavier than at any time last week, and the trade having a general impression that there will be considerable of this liquidation before the end of the month is loath to buy much stuff even around these low prices. The opening was 1/24 lower than Saturday's close. Weather conditions were almost perfect, and the on passage figures showed a large increase, 1,640,000 bushels. Private cables during the day quoted foreign markets weak and lower. New York wiring export inquiry was very poor, and primary receipts were 260,000, against 670,000 last year. Local stocks show but a small decrease for the week—151,000 bushels. The visible supply decreased 782,000 bushels. The spread between May and July was about 24c, against 174,02c Saturday. The close was weak without encouragement to holders, and indications do not point to a speedy recovery.

Coarse grains and provisions have followed wheat, although hogs were 10c higher at the yards. There was a gradual decline in hog product from the opening with apparently few buying orders in the market. By Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager.

GEORGIA, FULTON COUNTY—To the Superior Court of Said County: The petition of R. P. Dodge, P. H. Moore, D. M. Vining, Larry Conner, G. W. Evans and their associates shows that they have entered into an association under the name and style of THE INDUSTRIAL UNION: that the object of said association is social, educational and charitable, and for other similar purposes. Petitioners further show that they have no capital stock, as none is needed for the purpose of carrying out the object of said association. Your petitioners further show that they desire power to purchase and hold property, real and personal; to sue and to be aued, and to exercise all powers usually conferred upon corporations of similar character as may be consistent with the laws of Georgia.

Your petitioners further show that said Industrial Union is to have its principal office in the city of Atlanta, county of Fulton, but desires the right to establish branch offices at any place in the United States that a majority of its board of directors may designate.

Wherefore, the premises considered, your petitioners pray the passing of an order by said honorable court granting this their application, and that they and their successors be incorporated for a term of twenty years, with the right and privilege of renewal at the expiration of said period of time, for the purposes hereinbefore set forth. And your petitioners will ever pray, etc.

summarily nipped in the bud, it might have been worse.

Mr. J. T. Goodrich, a tall and resolute looking young man, a son of Mrs. Goodrich, the wife of the architect, who testified to some very vital facts in the case, was arraigned for trial on a charge that grew out of an incipient attack on Attorney Charles A. Read.

Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Hill Tell How the Difficulty Arose-A Man Who Wanted Ten Dollars.

Police court got hold of a stray branch of the Hall-Gould libel case yesterday after-noon. This branch measured up to the lively standard of the original, but, judged from its early indications before it was summarily nipped in the bud, it might olame.

"The little trouble," said he, "grew out of a speech that Mr. Read made in the trial of the libel case of Hall against Gould in Mr. Read the superior court last week. Mr. Read attacked Mrs. Goodrich bitterly, and, as I thought, in a way that was uncalled for. He called her a llar several times and, in

He called her a flar several times and, in addition to that, he referred to her as a stool pigeon. The young man feit that these terms were insulting to his mother, and after court had adjourned he approached Mr. Read with his father and brother. There were a few words and Mr. Read crossed the street."

Mr. Hili told about it in practically the same way. He said that Mr. Read, in the zeal of advocacy, used terms that he would not have used upon reflection. He did not think that in calling Mrs. Goodrich a stool pigeon he intended to convey the offensive meaning that this epithet usually implies. without hearing from Mr. Goodrich the recorder dismissed the case. It seems that a difficulty between the young man and Mr. Read was narrowly averted, as young Goodrich felt that his mother had been insulted.

He Wanted $10.

John Grant, white, rather seedy in appearance and somewhat boozy, started out yesterday to get $10, and it came from a source that he least expected it.

Mr. W. L. Hubbard, the wholesale grocer, says that he was in his store when Grant stepped in and rather peremptorily demanded $10. "If you don't ante up with the money, and that pretty quick, I'll get you out of here in a hurry."

Mr. Hubbard stated that he had no tencollar-bil handy, and if he did have he would not feel inclined to dispose of it on such short demand. The visitor became more bolsterous and evidently more determined to carry out his demand, and Mr. Hubbard called in Officer Beavers and had the money seeker arrested. In police court yesterday Grant said that he was drinking and was hardly responsible for what he had done.

"I'll give you the ten," said Judge Cal-T'll give you the ten," said Judge Cal-un. "Ten and cost."

THAT ART LOAN.

It Is Going to Be a Grand Affair from an Artistic Standpoint.

The Atlanta Art Loan, which will be opened April 30th in the rooms of the Atlanta Art school, will doubtless be a medium of great interest and instruction, not only to art critics, but admirers of artistic work.

A rumber of Atlanta's most prominent ladies have interested themselves in getting up the art loan with a view of increasing the love and appreciation of art in the city and to aid in the further establishment of the Atlanta school of art. The art ioan will consist of exhibits from valuable collections of curios, china, paintings, hangings, brica-brac and works of artistic merit and historical merit. The list of names of those contributing embraces many well-known people and guarantees that the art loan will be a thorough success.

In most important branches of the association. Mr. Shafer spent the morning at the park yesterday and was busily engaged in laying out a tennis court. During the summer months the park will be the scene of rare sport. Thirty applications have been received from prominent baseball players of the city, and from these an association team will be organized.

A tennis tournament will be held during the park will be one of the most attractive places in the neighborhood of the city.

will be a musicale every night, as well as other entertainments.

An especially interesting feature will be An especially interesting feature will be an exhibition of all of the principal pictures and statuary of the world, which will be given daily by stereopticon views.

Refreshments will be served day and night by some of Atlanta's charming young ladies. The following ladies have been asked to act as the head of the refreshment committee on the several days:

Mrs. W. D. Grant, Mrs. Hagan, Mrs. E. L. Connally, Mrs. Scrugs, Mrs. Rankin, Mrs. Hemphill, Mrs. General Evans.

Professor R. S. Paley, the director of the art school, is taking active charge of the loan and is well qualified to do so. He is a gold medalist of Antwerp, a pupil or several famous artists, and for the xes.

The devil reveals himself in talks with Rev. David Devine, D.D., and makes a defense in his own behalf, of himself, his character and his mission on earth. The public is presented with the most original book of the day. As the devil is purely an original character, he cannot think or act like any one, for no one is an authority with him. The indictments brought against him by Dr. Devine, charging him with being an evil spirit, he endeavors to explain and prove himself innocent, and he makes a good defense. The devil defends Eve in the eating of the forbidden fruit. He is doing God's will in afflicting Job. He is God's instrument in tempting Jesus in the wilderness, on the mountain and pinnacle. He explains why he desired to sift St. Peter. He proves that Judas had more faith in Jesus than the rest of the disciples and that Judas did not betray but tempted Jesus. "Section II. Be it further ordained that said election shall be held at all the voting or election precincts in said town, by the same persons and in the same manner, under the same rules and regulations that elections for officers of said town are held, and the returns shall be made to said common council of the town of East Point. Those voting for said bonds shall have upon their ballots the words, 'For Schoolhouse Bonds,' and those voting against said bonds shall have upon their ballots the words, 'Against Schoolhouse Bonds.'

Section III. Be it further ordained that all qualified voters of said town shall be entitled to vote at said election who shall register with the clerk of said council between the time of the opening of said books of registration, which shall be immediately after the passage of this ordinance, and the closing of the same, which shall be the hour of noon on the 21st day of May, 1894, the day preceding said election. And any other voter whose name is not on said registration list, who, for any reason save his own negligence, has failed to register, but who is otherwise entitled to vote, shall be allowed to cast his ballot upon taking and subscribing to the oath required of those who have registered before the manager of election. Which oath shall be filed with said clerk, and the name of such voter shall be entered on the registration book.

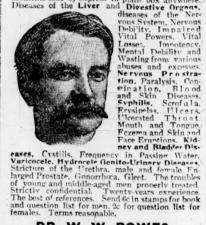

Lection IV. Be it further ordained that if said bonds are authorized and subsensessed and collected sufficient in amount to pay the principal and interest due thereon, in accordance with their terms as above set forth.

By Peeples and Stevens, Reporters for the Supreme Court of the State of Georgia.

Parker, executor, et al. v. Barlow, et al. Before Judge Fish. Sumter superior court. 1. One who sells a mass of timber, consisting of trees suitable for firewood which have been cut down and are still lying upon his land, receiving a gross pr.ce therefor, upon an estimate that the quantity will prove to be so many cords of wood, and warranting that the quantity shall consist of that number of cords, is liable upon his warranty for any deficiency in the estimated quantity, but the measure of damages for a breach of the warranty is not the market value of the warranty is not the market value of the wood, but a due proportion of the purchase money, with interest thereon.

2. In such case, if some of the wood was actually received by the buyer and no act remained to be done by the selier to complete delivery of the residue, title to the residue, as well as to the part received, vested immediately in the buyer; and if after the death of the seller his executors, whether acting professagily in their representative capacity or not, prevented the buyer by any wrongful act from entering upon the land and converting the trees into cord wood and removing the same therefrom, this would be a mere personal tort by the executors for which they would be liable personally but not in their representative capacity. If they merely objected to an entry, without doing or threatening to do any violent act to prevent it, the objection could and should have been disregarded, as the license of the testator to enter for removing the wood was not revokable either by himself or by his personal representatives.

3. If the delivery of the residue was incomplete at the death of the extentant it.

vokable either by himself or by his personal representatives.

3. If the delivery of the residue was incomplete at the death of the testator, it was the duty of the executors to complete the delivery, and they were subject to an action in their representative capacity for refusing so to do, and the measure of damages would be the market value of the trees as they lay upon the ground at the time the delivery ought to have been made. As to any deficiency in the quantity the breach of warranty would be the basis of action, and the measure of damage the same as indicated above in the first headnote.

1. If one on being inquired of by another who is about to purchase, before the maturity of the crop, a negotiable note not yet due, purporting on its face to be given for rent, admits the execution of the note by him, and that it was in fact given for rent, and the person making the inquiry acts upon this information in purchasing the note, the maker may be estopped to deny either the execution of the note or its consideration, in a subsequent proceeding against him by the purchaser to enforce by distress warrant the special lien on crops given by the act of September 27, 1883, the transfer of the note being by written assignment of the payee as provided for in that statute. But there will be no estoppel unless it is made to appear, either directly or from the attendant circumstances, that at the time of answering the inquiry the person inquired of either knew or had good reason to believe that a purchase of the note was in contemplation, and that the inquiry was not made out of mere curiosity or in the interest of the payee or of somebody already having or claiming a right in the subject matter. Whether or not the answer was made with notice of the object of the inquiry, is a question of fact for determination by the jury.

2. An affidavit to obtain a distress warrant to enforce a special lien of crops for the hobal of the transferee of a fent contract, is amendable; but to render the affidavit sufficient when amended, it should show all the facts necessary to raise the special lien provided for in the act of 1883 above referred to. Gress Lumber Company v. Coody. Before Judge Smith. Dodge superior court.

1. A deed which conveys 134 acres on the north side of a lot of land, described by its number, district and county, the lot beling by statute a square, is sufficiently certain to embrace such a parallelogram as would result from drawing a line across the lot, parallel with its northern boundary, so as to cut off 134 acres.

2. A lease which specifies that it is to embrace as many as fifty lots of land within certain described boundaries, may be applied by parol evidence to particular lots within those boundaries, notwithstanding fifty lots, the assignee of the lessee having entered under the lease upon the premises now in controversy, and the lessor, so far as appears, not contesting his right so to the matter.

Deeds and other writings applicable to matter in issue and broad enough in it terms to comprehend the premises in pute, though not describing them specifiely, were admissible in evidence in concition with the parol testimony offered erewith.

Ragan v. Chicago Packing and Provision

Ragan v. Chicago Packing and Provision Company. Before Judge Bower. Dougherty superior court.

Under the act of 1879 (code, section 3420 a), touching the liberty of a citizen in requiring bail in actions for the recovery of personal property, while no discharge is warranted unless the reasons shown for the non-production of the property are satisfactory, it is not requisite that an existing physical impossibility to produce the property should be the result of misadventure or of blameless conduct on the part of the defendant, but if it existed at all when the process was sued out, and continues to exist without any fault or misconduct committed by the defendant since that time, it should be deemed satisfactory. Inasmuch as by section 3418 of the code a plaintiff, in order to require bail, must make affidavit "that the property is in the possession, custody or control of the defendant," anything which shows with full certainty that this affidavit was not true in fact should be deemed a satisfactory reason for not producing the property, unless it affirmatively appears that since the plaintiff's affidavit was made, the defendant has acquired the power to produce it.

1. Where the levy of a mortgage fi. fa. embraced numerous articles of personal property, it was no cause of quashing the fi. fa. or for excluding it from evidence with the entry of levy thereon, that the description of a few of the articles varied in the entry from the terms of description embraced in the fi. fa. and mortgage. The levy may have been bad as to some of the property, but was undoubtedly good as to the residue, since the levy conformed to the residue, since the levy conformed to the descriptive terms used and set forth by the defendant himself in the mortgage.

The statute agnexes this incident to a wrongful holding over.

2. Although when double rent is allowed no interest can be computed, yet a charge to the contrary will not justify a new trial where it is manifest from the evidence and the verdict that no interest was allowed by the jury.

OUT AT THE PARK

The Members of the Exposition Committee Will Spend Part of Today.

CONFERENCE WITH THE ARCHITECTS

Was One of Value to the Exposition Move ment-A Committe- Appointed-The Visit to Peidmont Park Today.

The members of the executive committee and the committee on buildings and grounds for the exposition company will spend several hours today at Piedmont park making a thorough study of the grounds.

Yesterday afternoon an interesting meeting was held at the exposition rooms and the question of the scope of the exposition was discussed at some length.

The meeting was with the architects of the city and all the prominent members of the profession were present, as were also mittees. Captain English, chairman of the executive committee, presided at the meet-man for the architects, Mr. Bruce and Mr. Norrman also making speeches.

do everything in their power to help the on. They believe that it should be a distinctively southern exposition, and that this should be evidenced in the design of the buildings as well as in the exhibits which they contain. They were not tion to the exposition company, but they to do their full share toward the upbuilding of this enterprise which means so much to which the ground was gone over fully, a committee of five of the leading architects was appointed to take into consideration the question of preparing the plans for and to make a formal proposition to the exposition company on the part of the architects. The committee named consists of Messts. Tom Morgan, G. L. Norrman, Joseph J. Hall, W. T. Downing and G. W.

After the architects had withdrawn the members of the exposition committees discussed informally the matter of buildings and of the laying off of the exposition grounds. This is, of course, one of the most important, if not the most important, step to be taken and nothing will be decided upon excepting after a full confer-The members of the board have, however, been thinking a good deal about this, as was evident from their talks yesterday, when each had some suggestion to make Today they will go out to the park and will go over it very carefully, considering Endorsing the Exposition. The newspapers of the south are giving hearty endorsement to the exposition movement. In an interesting editorial in The Knoxville Journal of Sunday, Mr. W. M.

Knoxville Journal of Sunday, Mr. W. M. Goodman writes:

"The Cotton States and International exposition to be held in Atlanta in 1896 will be the beginning of a great educational work that will result in the diffusion of a thorough knowledge of the magnitude of the south's latent wealth, the development of its unlimited resources in agriculture, timber and minerals, and that will show the advantages of its geographical location in establishing direct foreign trade with Europe, Central and South America.

"At the annual meeting of the Wholesale Grocers' Association in New Orleans lâst week the question of diverting the commerce of the south and west from its present channels through South Atlantic and guif ports was freely discussed, and in summing up the whole situation it was found that the best material interests of twenty-two states of the union were directly involved in unlocking the great gateways of the ocean here as the cheapest means of making their exchanges with the world.

"This was not the beginning, however, of the work of developing southern ports and establishing closer commercial relations with Europe, but this, and the meetings now being held in the south and west for the furtherance of this important movement. manifest a revival of interest in the ment, manifest a revival of interest in the progress and present a comprehensive view of the possibilities of these centers of production.

"Hertofore over 64 per cent of the exports of the south and west have passed through ports north of Baitimore, and New York alone has received 70 per cent of their imports, while the magnificent shipping facilities by rail and water to ports on the Atlantic seaboard and guif coast afforded innumerable advantages which producers, manufacturers and consumers are now beginning to understand and appreciate.

"The development of southern industries and foreign trade is the chief object of the Cotton States and International exposition, and the credit of the movement should be equally shared between the enterprising city of Atlanta and the pioneer of this important work, Colonel I. W. Avery.

"Now, let us have co-operation. While the whole country is deeply interested in this matter, the people of Tennessee should realize its importance in relation to the development of their own state. The unlimited extent of coal and iron deposits, the exhaustless mountains of marble, the great possibilities of agriculture and manufacturing, with the nearness of southern ports and direct shipping facilities by rail to Wilmington, Charleston, Port Royal Savannah and Brunswick, and by steamboats to New Orleans, is an unanswerable argument, based upon geographical advantages and natural resources that should inspire that zeal and energy which is all that Tennessee requires to become first in importance and the center of wealth of the states that are to form the industrial and commercial El Dorado of the world.

"Apropos of the above, the Johnson Steamship Company has put on a line of steamers to make bi-monthly sallings from Port Royal to Liverpool, and the Noel Mill Company, of Estell Springs, Tenn., has already shipped a solid train load of flour via Atlanta through that port to England. These ships will be continued if the shippers of the south will make their foreign assignments through this c

FRIGHT CRAZED HER.

Deputy Marshal Turner's Wife Leaves Her Home and Wanders Aimlessly.

HER HUSBAND'S LIFE THREATENED

White Caps Have Sent Him Word That if He Does Not Let Up on Them He Will Be Killed.

A sequel of appalling sadness, the direct result of the Gordon county whitecap out-rages, has cast a gloomy shadow over the quiet little town of Calhoun.

Grieved over the occurrences of the past week, terrified by awful threats and alarmed on account of the supposed presence of impending disaster, the wife of Deputy Marshal Turner left home Sunday and for ental in obtaining evidence and locating so severely in Murray county, Turner was put on the case. Since then he has been actively emplayed in running down the men who made the attack. As the fruit of his labors Sylvester Kilgore, Robert Weaver and Fred Griever, all from Murray, were brought into Atlanta Saturday. meantime the deputy had received threats from many sources. All of them warned him to take his hands off the case and stop working up the affair at once. Severa death; but the marshal laughed at the threats and continued his dangerous investigations only the more vigorously.

The effect upon his loving wife was dif-ferent. She had heard of the threats and knew that the life of her husband was in imminent peril. Haunted by all kinds of fears and expecting every minute to hear of his assassination by the whitecaps, her mind gave way under the strain.

About 12 o'clock Sunday she left home calling pathetically for her husband, and declaring that to save him she would kill all the whitecaps in Georgia. She carried a pistol and a razor, both of which she was flourishing in a wild manner. Marshal Turner received a telegram about her de-parture Sunday afternoon, and left at once for Calhoun. A searching party was formed immediately and the woods for miles around gone over. The search was continued the whole of Sunday night without any success. Yesterday at noon, however, Mrs. Turner was found about ter miles from her home in a most pitiful condition, physically and mentally A telegram was received in Atlanta yes-terday afternoon by Marshal Henderson saying that Mrs. Turner was doing well, for this, and that the men made the attack in order to defraud the government out of these taxes, besides concealing the material facts in the case.

The second count shows that the parties whipped were witnesses in the case of the United States against John Abbott, one of the men now under arrest, and that they knew of his having a still.

The third section charges that the men were whipped because they had reported Bob Goodnight and other men now under arrest, for selling whisky.

To this a demurrer will be filed, setting arrest, for selling whisky.

To this a demurrer will be filed, setting forth that the federal court has no jurisdiction in cases of this kind; that the first charge in the indictment is vague and indefinite; that it is not shown that these defendants were under subpoena to the federal court; and that the facts set forth in the bill of indictment do not constitute any rights and privileges as defined in the United States court.

FUN AT THE GRAND.

Governor Northen Will Give Out the Words in the Spelling Match.

ASSISTED BY THE SUPREME BENCH

The Entertainment Is for the Library and Will Be One of the Best of the Season.

At the Grand opera house next Friday evening the great spelling match for the benefit of the Young Men's Library Assoiation, will be held. This will be the most amusing entertain-

Governor William J. Northen will give out the words and conduct the spelling match.

The governor is not only at home in affairs of state, but he is specially at home with the spelling book in his hand. A great many years ago, before he wa recognized as a power in the state, he was engaged in the patriotic, though not very lucrative, employment of "teaching the young idea how to shoot."

Governor Northen will be one of the drawing cards at the spelling match next By the Supreme Court.

In addition to the chief executive of the state, the judges of the supreme court will And this is another good feature of the spelling match.

The judges will decide all questions of orthography submitted to their judgment their jurisdiction being, co-extensive with the English language as embodied in the unabridged dictionary. They will no doubt add a large amount of judicial humor to the merriment of the occasion.

Major Livingston Mims will be the captain of the north Atlanta wing of the spelling match and Colonel George W. Adair of the south Atlanta wing. These veteran spellers, whose long experience and varied travels have brought them in touch with all kinds of adjectives, pronouns and miscellaneous parts of speech, will delight the large audience with the

A Queen of Curds and Cream. There is a woman is Denmark who may every afternoon.

There is a woman is Denmark who may reasonably claim the title of butter and cheesemaker to the crown heads of Europe. Every morning from her dairy a few pounds of butter are sent by express to the royal palace in Copenhagen. While visiting the king of Denmark, the emperor of Russia tasted her cheese and now he is one of her regular customers. The products of her dairy go to many other countries, everywhere commanding prices many times larger than those for which the goods of other producers sell, and without doubt there are other crowned heads than those of Denmark and Russia that are customers of hers. A other crowned heads than those of Denmark and Russia that are customers of hers. A bulletin of the United States department of agriculture tells about this remarkably successful dairywoman. She is Mme. Nielson. She calls her farm Havarthlgaard. It is an hour's ride by railway from Copenhagen. The farm is cared for by her husband and son-in-law, but when they deliver the warm milk into her possession their responsibility ceases. She personally superintends the making of the cheeses, and she markets her products. Not all of her butter and cheese is consumed by potentates, and the small surplus is sold in a little shop in the exhibition building in Copenhagen, where Mme. Nielson herself waits upon customers every afternoon.
